PLOT TO KILL ITALIAN KING

HUSBAND DENIES LOVE FOR WOMAN SUED BY HIS WIFE

PLAINTIFF (AT LEFT) AND DEFENDANT IN $10,000 ALIENATION SUIT

James E. Waters, husband of Mrs. Hattie A. Waters, the Back Bay dressmaker, who wants $10,000 from Mrs. Alice F. Elder of Revere, for alleged alienation of her husband's affections, went on the witness stand at the resumed hearing of the suit in the Superior Court to-day and testified bitterly against his wife, from whom he is separated.

Waters is large, spectacled, red-faced, loud-voiced and exceedingly nervous. He said he was a musician, and all the time he was on the witness stand he tapped the rail with his fingers as though playing an imaginary piano.

In the course of his testimony he mentioned a Harvard professor among the gallant and generous friends of his wife.

Witness said that at present he was a member of the orchestra of a variety theatre in Worcester. In fact, he was the whole orchestra. He was the piano player. Although his business was in Worcester, he lived in Boston. Mrs. Elder, the defendant, had been from time to time his landlady. He did not love Mrs. Elder.

Doesn't Love Anyone.

"I love nobody," shouted Waters, in answer to a very pointed question.

"Do you mean to tell the court that your relations with Mrs. Elder have only been those that usually exist between landlady and tenant?" demanded plaintiff's lawyer.

"That's what I said," growled Waters, with a ferocious scowl at his inquisitor.

Further probing along these lines developed the admission that witness occasionally borrowed money from Mrs. Elder. On one occasion he borrowed $100 from her.

"And what did you want that money for?" was asked.

To Hire a Sleuth.

"I wanted it to buy a detective to shadow my wife."

Waters then told of the first really serious trouble at home. About a year after his marriage, which was in 1901, his wife returned to the home at 1 o'clock in the morning.

"Next day I went to work as usual. When I came home for dinner there was nothing in the house but a piano, a couch and a trunk. Mrs. Waters had removed all the furniture and shipped."

REPORT JAPS SANK TWO SEAL PATROLS

CRUISERS, SUPPOSED TO BE RUSSIAN, FIRED UPON BY TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYERS.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 13.—Two converted cruisers, Sitka and Kediua, according to advices received from the Empress of China, have been sunk by a Japanese destroyer at the seal rookeries off Copper Island.

A Japanese newspaper to-day prints a dispatch from Vladivostok telling of the act, and it has created great excitement in Japanese cities where the news has been received. The dispatch adds that excitement runs high in Vladivostok, also.

The two vessels reported sunk had been doing patrol duty in the seal waters. The cause of the clash between the Japanese destroyer and the patrol boats has not been learned.

Copper Island lies east of Southern Kamchatka and is in Russian territory. It is believed that the vessels that were sunk were Russian boats.

It was declared at Washington, dispatches say, that there are no vessels in the American navy of those names.

1,000 ARMED MEN HUNT MANIAC DESPERADO

REGION OF THOMASTON, ME., IN TERROR OVER ESCAPE OF NEGRO FROM PRISON.

Special to the Boston American.

THOMASTON, Me., Nov. 12.—Determined to capture, dead or alive, Minot St. Clair Francis, a desperate criminal who made his escape from the Thomaston prison while the bullets from the gun sof the guards flew harmlessly about his head, 1,000 men, armed with shotguns and rifles, are to-day forming a cordon about the territory in which the man is in hiding, and it is believed that he will be brought to bay before night.

Early to-day a negro believed to be Minot St. Clair Francis tried to break into the store of Alfred Smith in Warren and Smith fired a shot at him, but missed him. Between 7 and 8 o'clock Francis was captured at Simonton's Corner, about two and one-half miles from Rockport. He has abandoned his team and taken to the mountains about Rockport.

With a sentence of sixteen years hanging over his head in this State for shooting a man while committing a burglary, and wanted at the Bridgewater, Mass., Insane Asylum, from which he also escaped, it is believed that the savage colored man will fight to the death before he will allow himself to be taken.

A report was circulated here to-day that Francis was seen early to-day about eighteen miles from here, driving along a road in a wagon which he had stolen from this place. It is believed that the man's mother aided him after his escape, as she has been a visitor at the jail on every day possible for some time.

The news that the convict had made his escape was telephoned all over southern Maine, and threw the country district especially into a state of terror. Many sportsmen who are in that section heard of the great man hunt and joined in the chase. At each farmhouse there is a man in charge with loaded guns, and if Francis attempts to enter any of them and demand food or any other kind of help he will be shot.

Warden Norton of the jail has offered a reward for the capture of the man dead or alive and has asked for authority to increase the offer because of the dangerous character. All of the jail officials who can be spared and the city and county officials of this section of the State have joined in the search.

ACCUSE TRUST COMPANY OF BREAKING NEW LAW

The Corporation Trust and Investment Company, with officers at No. 60 State street, through its counsel, C. S. Eddy, to-day pleaded not guilty in the Superior Criminal Court, before Judge Brown, to an indictment which charged it with doing a trust company business without being incorporated, as required by chapter 10, section 177, of the Revised Laws.

According to commissioner of Corporations Trefry, this is the first prosecution under the new law. The law provides a penalty of $100 one for each day that the law is violated, and the indictment charges that for three months prior to the finding of the same the company violated the law. If found guilty, the company may be fined $9,000.

American Anarchists Arrested at Naples Planned Assassination of Whole Royal Family—Men Said to Be From Paterson, N. J.

NAPLES, Nov. 13.—What the police say was a deliberately and most skillfully planned plot to assassinate King Victor Emanuel of Italy and the Duke and Duchess of Aosta was frustrated here to-day by the arrest of Gabriel Lanzetta and a man known to be Lanzetta's cousin, but whose name is unknown.

The two men were recent arrivals in Naples, having come here from Paterson, N. J. The arrest was made by Italian police upon cabled information from New York detectives engaged on the case for several weeks.

Lanzetta was to have slain the King and the other man was commissioned to kill the Duke and Duchess, according to the information of the authorities.

It is declared that the details of the assassination were all worked out at a recent meeting of "Reds" in Paterson, N. J. The New York police were notified, but their quarry had flown. The result was that the Italian police took up the case, but did not locate the men until to-day.

IN SCHOOL OF BRESCI.

Neither of the prisoners will talk, and the officers have not yet located their lodgings, at which they expect to find evidence which may lead to additional arrests in America.

The two Anarchists, it is declared, are of the same school as Gaetano Bresci, who assassinated King Humbert in 1900.

GIRL DRUGGED, SHE SAYS, HER FINE REMITTED

When Miss Alpha Murray was arraigned in the Municipal Court to-day she told Judge Bennett that she had been drugged in a house on Corning street, and so impressed the magistrate that he revoked the $20 fine he had imposed and requested Mrs. Tuttle, probation officer, to investigate. When the girl comes before the Judge on Thursday it is likely that she will be committed to some home.

Miss Murray is a tall, slender brunette and pretty. But she made a sad figure in the dock with dishevelled black hair hanging down her back.

"I came here from New York," she said, and I don't know a soul in the city. I am twenty-two years old. I was looking for work. I met a woman who asked me into a house. She gave me something to drink. I'm sure that the liquor was drugged—it dazed me. There was a negro man, who beat me cruelly. I don't remember all very distinctly—I was dizzily sick when the policeman came into the room."

Policeman Downey arrested the girl. He was called into the house by the woman who is said to conduct it. Mrs. Tuttle said that while the girl was under the influence of liquor, she need as if she might have been drugged.

ACCUSE CONVICTED MAN OF PERJURY

Max Mathews, one of the members of the bankrupt Standard Overall Company of Kingston street, was arrested to-day and taken before Judge Dodge of the United States District Court on the charge of perjury in connection with his trial for concealing assets of the company.

IRISH ENVOYS LEAVE BOSTON FOR NEW YORK

Richard Hazleton, M. P., and Thomas M. Kettle, M. P., the two young Irish representatives who have been addressing meetings in Massachusetts for ten days past, in support of the Irish cause, leave Boston at 5 o'clock to-day for New York and Pennsylvania, where they will continue their work for the next couple of weeks.

They are gratified at the hearty welcome tendered them in every one of the Massachusetts cities in which they have spoken. Lawrence, Lowell, Worcester, Holyoke and Pittsfield each gave them a most enthusiastic welcome, and on Sunday night at Fall River they addressed the largest meeting held in the city for many years in support of the Irish cause, despite the great inclemency of the weather.

At each of the meetings a large amount was subscribed by the friends of the Irish movement.

"We cannot sufficiently thank our people in Massachusetts, and indeed the American people generally in this State for the hearty welcome they have accorded us," said Mr. Hazleton, one of the two young Irish envoys, to the reporters before leaving for New York. "We do not, of course, regard the welcome as given to us personally, but a tribute from the friends of freedom in this great country to the cause of which we have striven to be at least moments the humble and inexperienced representatives."

COLONEL WEIL, NOTE BROKER, IS DEAD

Colonel Charles Weil, the head of the firm of Charles Weil & Company, note brokers, No. 79 Milk street, died of heart failure at Hotel Somerset to-day. His wife, two sons, Charles J., Jr., and Sumner, and one of his sons-in-law, A. Lincoln Filene, were with him in his last moments.

WIDOW AND SON OF THAW VICTIM SEEK CAMBRIDGE HOME TO FORGET TRAGEDY

THE LATE STANFORD WHITE, SLAIN BY HARRY THAW, AND SON LAWRENCE

Showing characteristics in nose, mouth and chin that made the father great and also brought him to his death, repeated in the face of the son.

WIDOW OF STANFORD WHITE, AND HER NEW CAMBRIDGE HOME.

To Avoid Publicity of Thaw Trial, Give Up Handsome New York House.

Family of Slain Architect Lease Residence in the College City.

To avoid the publicity of the approaching trial of Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of her husband, Mrs. Stanford White has given up her handsome home in New York and has taken a lease of the H. O. Houghton place at No. 25 Kirkland street, Cambridge.

Mrs. White's one interest in life is her son, Lawrence, a student at Harvard who concludes his term next year.

With Mrs. White's departure from New York has taken place also the dismantling of the famous studio occupied by her husband in the tower of Madison Square Garden.

The pictures, some of them priceless, have been removed. The tapestries, heavy carpets, silken draperies and costly furniture are all gone.

Famed for Its Revels.

No one seems to know what has become of the furnishings or by whose orders they were taken away.

It was in these apartments that Stanford White gave many of the entertainments that made him famous. Over his desk there appeared the motto: "Wearing apples gives no pain."

With the removal of the cuniablipes the spiders arrived. Many of them have found the studio a fine place in which to weave their silken threads.

Mrs. White giving up her Twenty-third street apartments and her removal to Cambridge leaves none of the hundred members of the family in New York. Save for the coming trial Mrs. White would be forgotten in New York.

The H. O. Houghton place, which has been leased by Mrs. White, has been occupied by the publisher's widow since his death last Summer. Mrs. Houghton has given up the place in order to move to Garden street to be near her daughter.

The house is a three-story structure of wood, at the corner of Kirkland street and Divinity avenue. Directly opposite is the Randall Hall dining room of Harvard.

Fine Colonial Mansion.

It is admittedly one of the best sites in Cambridge and the quaint old fashioned colonial structure, is one of the prettiest in the vicinity of the university. It is surrounded by a spacious lawn with fine old elms of large proportions shading the approach.

All of the grounds are well kept and the wide lawn is surrounded by several fine flower beds.

The house has been in the possession of a number of servants for several weeks. They have renovated the place considerably and made it ready for Mrs. White's occupancy.

How Mrs. White and her son hope to be able to drive out the memory of the tragedy that started all New York.

CUNARD LINER CARONIA ON FIRE AT SEA

QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 13.—Passengers on board the Cunarder Caronia, which arrived here to-day, are congratulating themselves over a narrow escape from disaster.

While the liner was working her way by Roche's Point a fire was discovered in the electric fan room. The passengers were mused aslosp and Captain Barr ordered the fire crew to extinguish the blaze with as little noise as possible. The officers soon swung into the duties necessary to quelling the snip in case the fire gained headway.

The fire was obstinate and trails of smoke were wafted through the passageways. Several passengers awoke, but only the bold ones ventured in the passages and everyone that nothing was wrong. After a struggle of over two hours the fire was extinguished. Many passengers did not know of the threatened peril until it was past.

Captain Barr signalled Roche's Point that his ship had been afire but the flames had been extinguished.

"UNWRITTEN LAW" WILL BE THAW DEFENCE

$100,000 Fee to Famous Lawyer to Justify Killing of Stanford White.

SURPRISE TO N. Y. BAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Harry K. Thaw will seek to justify his killing of Stanford White and save himself from the electric chair on the "unwritten law."

For a fee, said to be $100,000, Delphin M. Delmas, the famous San Francisco lawyer, has been engaged to conduct the defence of the young Pittsburg millionaire when he is brought to trial on December 3. Judge Delmas was engaged by Mrs. William Thaw. His power over a jury is wonderful, and with the defence of White's killing resting on the rock of "unwritten law," the trial promises tense human interest.

Judge Delmas is the man who placed William R. Hearst in nomination for President at the St. Louis convention. He will give up his home in San Francisco and take a residence in New York.

Defence Surprises Bar.

After weeks of uncertainty the announcement that the "unwritten law" is to be the defence came as a startling sensation to the criminal bar. Everyone believed that insanity at the time of the crime would be the plea.

One big question is being asked everywhere to-day. Can Thaw's counsel prove that Stanford White sought to destroy his friendship with Evelyn Nesbit after her marriage to Thaw? Should it be developed that the architect forced his attentions on Mrs. Thaw the jury will have a question of moral code to decide and no code of law.

The defence will admit the killing and seek to justify it. If the moral code is higher than the legal statutes in the minds of the jury, Harry Thaw will walk out of the Tombs a free man. If the effect letter of the law is followed, the path of Harry Thaw is to the electric chair.

Reveal White's Inner Life.

Judge Delmas has had experience in "unwritten law." He was advisory counsel for Preston Beale of San Francisco, who shot and killed Frank Marriott for publishing an alleged indecent paragraph about Miss Marie Algy, who later became Beale's wife.

The "unwritten law," as Thaw's defence, will bring out the story of White's former life. The Rialto and the artists' world was the Bohemia in which White lived, and the stories of his merry seven-trieties of entertainment are recounted in every cafe and studio. These tales will be told on the witness stand, but the very nature of the defence will bring out the story of Thaw's ten years of frivolity and revelry "on Broadway after dark."

MOTHER SEEKS REVENGE

PARENT OF SLAIN GRACE BROWN CRIES OUT AGAINST GILLETTE, ACCUSED OF THE CRIME

Declares She Would Chop to Pieces Young Man Accused of Daughter's Murder.

Special to the Boston American.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Nov. 12.—"What would I do to him? I would chop his body in pieces. That's what I'd do."

In this manner Mrs. Frank Brown, mother of Grace Brown, for whose death Chester E. Gillette of Cortland was placed on trial yesterday for murder, described the punishment that she would give to Gillette if she had the power.

With her husband and three daughters Mrs. Brown came from their home on a Dewitter farm to-day. They are all witnesses in the case, called by the prosecution. Farmer Brown is a man of small means. The family sought sensational action at a boarding house on the outskirts of the town.

"Oh," said Mrs. Brown, "I wish that I were the one to say what should be done with him. To think that he would kill an innocent little girl like my Gracie. Suicide?

Bosh.

Wanted to Marry Another.

"Gillette wanted to marry that other girl. If he didn't have some other reason for wanting to stay in Cortland and to rid himself of the dear little girl whose trouble he was responsible for, why didn't he simply run away?

"Grace would not have followed him if he had shown any disposition to get away from her. Why didn't he get out of town when Grace was home for three weeks? I will never believe that he did not want heart in Cortland.

Mrs. Brown had reference to Hattie Benedict, daughter of a prominent Cortland lawyer, who was the principal witness in the murder trial. By Miss Benedict the District Attorney hopes to prove that Gillette had a motive for making away with Grace Brown.

Other Girl Denies Engagement.

But Miss Benedict has firmly denied that she was engaged to Gillette, and Gillette, in the only statement he ever made to the newspapers, denied that there was any attachment between him and Miss Benedict further than mutual friendship.

Gillette's attitude in court astonished everybody. Never was an accused murderer more calm. He took the customary seat at the side of his counsel and listened to the proceedings quietly. There were many things that required a smile now in the questions and answers that passed between lawyers and jurors, and he would have laughed loudly more than once if he had not sniffed his mouth with his handkerchief.

Nine talesmen were accepted by the lawyers, and the jury will probably be completed to-day. It is expected that the examination of witnesses will consume more than a week.

In Love With Employer's Nephew.

Grace Brown, twenty years old, the daughter of a farmer of good family, but poor, went to Cortland to work in the Gillette shirt factory. There she met Chester Gillette, twenty-three, the nephew of the owner of the factory. Gillette paid attention to her and she fell in love with him. The couple arrived at Big Moose Lake and registered at Hotel Glenmore, Miss Brown under her own name and Gillette as "Carl Graham, Albany."

The following day, in the lonely part of the lake, a body was overturned and Miss Brown's body near it in shallow water. It looked like a murder drowning, but some guides reported having met the young man near where the body was found, and said that he had inquired the way to Arrow Head Inlet. [illegible]

Slain Girl and Sweetheart, on Trial for Having Caused Her Death.

STORY OF ROMANCE OF POOR GIRL WHICH ENDED IN TRAGEDY

Chapter I.
LAST MESSAGE TO MOTHER.

JUST about an hour before Grace Brown passed into eternity her thoughts travelled homeward.

In the heart of the Adirondacks she bought a souvenir postal card and mailed it to her mother with this [illegible] message:

Dear Mother—I am having a nice time. Will write you to-night. From your loving GRACE.

Pondered this insensibility, robbed of her last cent, dumped to death in the still waters of Big Moose Lake—that was Grace Brown's "nice time."

Chapter II.
FAUST IN A FACTORY.

FOURTH born and brightest of a family of seven children, Grace Brown was nineteen years old when there came into her life a fate-seeming romance which ended in fondest tragedy.

Up to this time she had been living on her father's farm in South Otselic, a sleepy little settlement near Utica, N. Y.

Anxious to see something of the great world she used to read about, and ambitious to earn her own living, Grace left the farm at the beginning of this year and went to nearby Cortland, where she found employment in a shirt factory owned by a millionaire named Gillette.

Chester Gillette, favorite nephew of the proprietor, happened to be there learning the business. Coarse looking this comely, the young fellow was an honey-tongued as ally.

He came from Michigan, where his parents, once quite well to do, had fallen under the blighting spell of Dowieism and handed over most of their earthly possessions to the disgraced, deposed, scandemented overseer of Zion City.

Even as with fair words of promise "Elijah" had deceived and despoiled the elder Gillettes of their cash, so did Chester, the younger, lure simple Grace Brown away from happiness.

Chapter III.
A DECEITFUL HOPE.

MONDAY, July 8, 1906, brought sunshine into the lonely life of forlorn Grace Brown.

Word came from young Gillette that his conscience troubled him, that his love for Grace had been kindled anew and that he purposed righting the wrong he had done. Would she meet him in the Adirondacks and there get married?

Joyfully Grace Brown kept the tryst, cheered by a deceitful hope that the end of her troubles was near. His attitude was one of rapturous devotion.

By a roundabout route he took the girl to Big Moose Lake and, at the hotel there registered as "Carl Graham of Albany."

Then he hired a boat, helped Grace aboard, threw in his suit case and camera, jumped aboard himself and pushed off the craft.

That was the last time Grace Brown was seen alive by anybody but Gillette.

Twenty-four hours later her bruised and broken body was found floating on the lake.

Her white fingers were clutching whiter pond lilies. Her pretty face had been disfigured in the [illegible] of a man's fist.

Chapter IV.
HUNTED DOWN.

THOSE lucky sportsmen up in the Adirondacks seem to be rough, gruff fellows, for they have hearts.

The story of Grace Brown's death indamed them to vengeance. The night after her body was found they met in a camp near Big Moose and resolved that "Carl Graham of Albany" must die. Then they beat the woods in search of him.

Soon after daybreak on the morning of July 11 a deputy sheriff of Herkimer County named Klock found "Carl Graham"—suit case, camera and all—at a little frequented spot in the Adirondacks known as Arrow Head Inlet.

The young man was sitting on a tree stump smoking a cigarette.

"I see by the papers that 'Billy' Brown's been drowned in Big Moose," said Klock, stepping up to Gillette.

"Billy Brown" was the pet name by which Grace was known at home and among her intimate friends.

Gillette leaped to his feet and faced the deputy sheriff.

"No," he shouted. "It's that girl!"

"Yes, it's so," answered Klock very quietly. Then placing his hand on the young man's shoulder he added, "and you're under arrest for her murder."

Gillette blanched and trembled and the half-smoked cigarette fell from his fingers.

Chapter V.
ACCIDENT, SAYS GILLETTE.

IN Herkimer jail Gillette made an explanation. He admitted that he was the "Carl Brown of Albany," who had registered at the Big Moose Hotel.

The drowning was an accident, he said. He stood up in the boat and the boat tipped over, throwing him and Grace Brown into the water.

Did he make an effort? Didn't he try to rescue the girl?

No, he saw no use of shouting for help, and as for trying to save his sweetheart, he purposely kept away from her for fear she would throw her arms around him and drag him down, too.

So he let her sink and die, while he swam ashore.

Gillette's clothing bore no indication of having been in the water, and the fact that his suit case and camera which were in the boat when he alleges it tipped over were dry and undamaged was a fairly positive refutation of his story, but the boat having been found.

Nor could Gillette explain why he had tramped for miles with his suit case and camera for miles through the woods, travelling by night through unfrequented paths to Arrow Head Inlet, when he had a comfortable room in a hotel within a stone's throw of the spot where Grace Brown sank.

Chapter VI.
FIENDISHNESS, SAYS WARD.

STATEMENT by District Attorney [illegible] of Herkimer County, who to-day is conducting the prosecution of Gillette for murder:

"In all my experience I have not encountered personally, nor have I read of a case where the elements of fiendishness in planning and carrying to the killing of poor Grace Brown.

"The details of the deed reveal a crime so well-moulded and revolting that it is all but beyond human comprehension. That a youth with the intelligence and apparent refinement of Gillette could have committed it.

"And yet the case against the prisoner is complete. We have traced the movements from the moment he sneaked aboard the train with his victim to the moment of his arrest.

"The components indicate that Gillette added robbery to his infamous crime. After killing Miss Brown he took possession of and stole $6 from her purse, which was all it contained.

"Not a single link in the chain of incriminating evidence is missing.

"Chester Gillette will surely die for the life he took."

Friends Try to Stop Alienation Case by Reconciling Fred W. Haley and His Wife.

THOSE INVOLVED SILENT

Special to the Boston American.

LYNN, Nov. 13.—That the case of alienation of his wife's affections started by Fred M. Haley when he filed an attachment for $100,000 against Alden B. Sleeper, the wealthy Boston and Swampscott leather merchant, will never be brought to trial is the belief of relatives and friends who have labored to effect a reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. Haley.

The Haleys have separated. Mrs. Haley is at the home of her father, Charles Leighton, No. 849 Boston street, and her eight-year-old daughter, Constance, remains with her father at the beautiful Haley home on King street.

Beyond the filing of the attachment there has been nothing further done about it suit. Mr. Haley, who is at his office in Tempiae place every day, declines to discuss the case in any way, but it is understood that he has listened to the appeals made by his friends and relatives not to press the case further.

Mr. Sleeper is equally reticent about the affair.

There is a strong guard about the Haley home which prevents intrusion. Mr. Haley will not allow either himself or any member of his household to be seen.

Both the Haleys and the Sleepers are prominent in North Shore society. They have many friends for whom the Sleepers made an automobile trip to the White Mountains together about this time ago.

Nothing in years has created such a sensation on the North Shore as the announcement of the attachment filed against Mr. Sleeper, with the reasons given for it.

TWO LABOR CANDIDATES FOR BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Kneeland and O'Hare, Both of whom Carry Union Cards, Strongly Endorsed.

Two Democratic candidates for aldermen who carry union cards and are indorsed by labor organizations and Wage Earners' League of Boston are Alderman Fred J. Kneeland of the Eleventh District, comprising wards 22 and 23, and ex-Representative Frank J. O'Hare of South Boston, who is vying for the nomination in the district comprising Wards 13, 14 and 15.

Alderman Kneeland has served two terms in the board and has been considered the special advocate of labor measures. He pledges himself to promote public ownership of public utilities and to urge the investigation of the city government and the fighting monopolies of the city.

During his service in the House and the Common Council Mr. O'Hare introduced and advocated many bills in the interests of the people and of labor.

The primaries, at which candidates for the board will be nominated, will be held Thursday. Registration for the primaries will close to-night. Registration for the city election will be from November 16 to 21 inclusive.

2 DEAD, 3 RESCUED IN INCENDIARY FIRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Two men were burned to death, and a woman, a little girl and an aged man were rescued barely in time to save their lives, and Worker Hotel on Adee street, Port Chester, was destroyed to-day, in a fire that is believed to have been set.

Every effort is being made by Chief of Police James Donovan and Coroner Van Torten to find the person who placed fire under the building and used it to make a funeral pyre.

SAY POISON IN BREAD DUE TO FUMIGATION

Lawyers for Woman Accused in Springfield Mystery Say She Is Guiltless.

TRIAL CONTINUED TO-DAY

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 13.—That some of the poison that had been used in fumigating the house got into the rising bread in the home of Alfred Ledoux and made eleven persons seriously ill, is the argument of the attorney who has been employed to defend Florence Shipley, the colored cook who is under arrest for the crime.

The woman was brought before Judge Sanford in the Police Court to-day and the case was continued until Friday in order to allow Dr. H. D. Emerson to finish his search for arsenic in the bread. Dr. Emerson is engaged in analysing the sugar, salt, lard and other ingredients used in the bread of which traces of arsenic were found.

Says House Was Fumigated.

Richard J. Morrissey of Westfield, counsel for Shipley woman, told a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day that while the family were away the cook made bread for their return. She set it to "rise," and put it in the oven. The next day the house was fumigated.

Attorney Morrissey declared that when the Shipley woman came in next day she found the pantry door open. He thinks the bread in its peculiar state of ferment took in some of the fumigating stuff used.

Raise Money to Aid Woman.

Money for the defence of Mrs. Shipley is being raised by her former employers, Frank Sexton and Dr. James of Westfield, and others have already contributed to help her fight the charges. Should the matter go to the Grand Jury these men and others, it is declared, will see that the woman gets bail.

Mrs. Shipley has been separated from her husband for the past four months, but it is now said that her present troubles have brought about a reconciliation. Mr. Shipley has called at the jail, and he also helped secure legal counsel for his wife.

2 WOMEN ARRESTED FOR ROBBING MAN

Struggling desperately with two women in Franklin avenue, Luigi Chipolla of No. 741 Warren street, Roxbury, was trying to prevent being robbed when Patrolman Hines came to his assistance and arrested the women. They gave the names of Rebecca Brooks of No. 24 Mason street and Florence Smith of No. 28 Portland street, Cambridge. One of the women, standing over a grating near the Quincy House, threw something down. Near that spot was found $20 in bills. When the engine room was visited later $12 more was found, or $41 in all.

67 DOCTORS EXAMINED.

Sixty-seven, including six women are today making the examinations as physicians before the State Board of Registration in medicine.

FEDERATION OF LABOR STARTS BIG CONVENTION

President Gompers Says That Workers Will Use Independent Ballot Till They Win.

HAVE 15 MEN IN CONGRESS

By Frank K. Foster.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 13.—A great wave of applause swept over the twenty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor when President Samuel Gompers, in the course of his annual address yesterday, reached the portion of Labor's Political Programme. The applause was renewed several times as the sturdy president of the Federation, in trenchant phrases, outlined the political platform he framed by the Chicago convention and reiterated again and again the declarations that labor proposed to have an independent ballot until its measures are given due consideration by all legislative bodies.

He claimed that a great moral victory had been already won and that a sufficient number of friendly Congressmen had been elected to the next Congress to warrant the assumption that there would be much less pigeonholing of labor bills in that body than at previous sessions.

President Gompers made no direct recommendation as to the details of the Federation's future political methods and in the omission failed to meet the expectations of some of the more enthusiastic delegates, but as this matter will come up under the report of the executive council, which is to be made later, some proposition will probably then be presented. The committee assignments of Massachusetts delegates are as follows:

Resolutions, James Duncan of Quincy, chairman; treasurer's report, C. R. Frost, Boston; organization, J. F. O'Donnell, Fall River, E. Gerry Brown, Brockton; labels, E. T. Wells, Brockton; grievances, John Golden, Fall River; F. H. McCarthy, Boston; education, J. F. Tobin, Boston; state organizations, D. D. Driscoll, Boston; president's report, Frank K. Foster, Boston, chairman.

Mr. Gerry Brown of Brockton, late candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Massachusetts on the Democratic and Independence League tickets, led the cheering which greeted the close of the address of Governor John A. Johnson of Minnesota at the morning session of the convention. Governor Johnson, who has just been re-elected, gave the delegates a brief heart-to-heart talk which made a hit. He is a fine type of the American of Scandinavian descent, physically and mentally, and his personal magnetism carried the convention with him.

The Minnesota labor men are jubilant over the fact that out of thirty-nine legislative candidates indorsed by them, thirty-three were elected. The delegates from the United Mine Workers' report that two of their members have been elected to Congress, and that they have twelve members in the Pennsylvania Legislature alone. John Mitchell estimates that there are at least fifteen members elected to Congress from various parts of the country.

The report of Treasurer Lennon shows a balance on hand of $13,540. In the sixteen years of his stewardship he has handled over $1,400,000 of the funds of the Federation.

ROOSEVELT 600 MILES FROM COLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A wireless message from the President, sent this evening at 8 o'clock, reports the Louisiana, with the President on board, 600 miles from Colon, and all well.

MINISTER, NATIVE OF LYNN, DIES IN TROY

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Rev. Dr. T. P. Sawin, one of Troy's most prominent ministers, died to-day from paralysis. He was born in Lynn, Mass., in 1841. In early life he was a Congregational and held pastorate at Medford, Mass. He became pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city in 1880.

'DEFEAT OF GARTLAND,' CRY OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Organized labor is making a vigorous and determined fight against the nomination of Senator John J. Gartland, the corporation candidate for alderman from the district comprising Wards 9 and 10.

At the meeting to-night in Franklin schoolhouse, held under the auspices of the Central Labor Union, Gartland's record of subservience to the corporation interests that support the corrupt lobby on Beacon Hill, will be thoroughly ventilated.

Gartland's persistent opposition to measures intended to benefit the working people of his district and the State, will be held fair to the voters of Wards 9 and 10 by President Edward Cohen of the A. F. of L., General Labor Agent Martin Joyce, former president of the C. L. U., Congressman John A. Keliher, Daniel L. Flanagan, labor's candidate for the Democratic Aldermanic nomination against Gartland; Charles E. O'Donnell of the Wage Earners' Club, and Nicholas Quinn.

A Tool of the Corporations.

In a joint appeal to the voters of Ward 9 and 10, inviting them to "read John J. Gartland's record of betrayal of labor's interests," the A. F. L. and Central Labor Union present a scathing indictment of the man who, if he cannot out, does not dare to run for re-election to the Legislature, but who is trying to evade his record and slip into the Board of Aldermen.

The work was done in Gartland's cast the deciding vote. Had Gartland been present and performed his sworn duty, his vote would have saved the important piece of labor legislation from defeat by a single vote, declare, ought to be sufficient in itself to bring about his overwhelming defeat at the polls on Thursday.

Getting Men Jobs on the "L."

Labor men point out that Gartland is unconscionably betraying his connection with one of the corporations that has a lobbyist at the State House. They say he is going as the friend of the workingmen at his district, securing them jobs on the elevated railroad.

Within the last few days, it is reported, he has placed more than fifty men there—and more than five or a hundred more if he so desires. The Boston L will do anything. The argument in the way of jobs to help his friend Gartland to secure a place in the Board of Aldermen, as it may have some measure before that Board during the coming year, it is said, he can employ men. But, when the primaries are closed, when Gartland has no further use for the workingmen that he has placed, he will be discharged," it is predicted, "for one reason or another."

That is the programme and organized labor is determined that the voters shall not be blinded to the fact that Gartland is their bitter foe.

Dodged Many Important Bills.

1899, absent and failed to vote on House bill 167, regulating hours of labor for women and children; 1900, voted against House Bill 750, to control the trusts; 1900, absent and refused to vote on bills authorizing the completion of Boston's public parks, authorizing municipal lighting plants; 1901, absent and refused to vote on House Bill 234, making eight hours a day's work and $2 the lowest pay for public employes; 1902, absent and refused to vote on House Bill 176, for additional pensions to Civil War veterans who had lost an arm or a leg by using shot guns; 1903, absent and refused to vote on bill permitting striking workmen to communicate with other workmen at the scene of strike, known as the "Peaceful Picketing Bill"; 1903 on the overtime Bill, for the protection of women and children working in cotton mills, Gartland was absent at every stage of its passage through the Senate.

By his attitude on the Overtime bill alone Senator Gartland has stamped himself as unfitted for further honors at the hands of the working people of his district, declares organized labor.

On Side of the "Interests."

The corporations owning mills and factories in the State where women and children are employed at night were opposed to its enactment. Organized labor all over the State indorsed it. Consistent with his attitude upon all other measures of similar provisions, Gartland was on the side of the corporations. Instead of being at his post to vote for the measure, or at least to state his reasons, main fashion, for opposing it, he dodged the issue. He was absent at every step in its progress through the Senate, to the end that the bill was finally disposed of by its enemies in the Senate, backed by the corporation lobby, Gartland was absent.

The work was done in Gartland's cast the deciding vote. Had Gartland been present and performed his sworn duty, his vote would have saved this important piece of labor legislation from defeat by a single vote, declare, ought to be sufficient in itself to bring about his overwhelming defeat at the polls on Thursday.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, many fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable curative power has been proved in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine, you should have the best.

Wilson, Conn., Feb. 18th, 1906.

Dear Sirs:—A man could not be in any worse condition than I was before I used Swamp-Root. I was afflicted with several good doctors, and one physician told me I had Bright's disease of the kidneys. I was all run down, my liver was out of order, and I was still getting worse. I was afraid to eat anything at all for weeks, could not lie down without someone helping me to turn over, my face was sunk and pained me, urine was as black as cream and it would scald me some, rising of mucus, had to get up from 15 to 20 times in the night and was very nervous.

I began using Swamp-Root and in four I am a well man and every bill was paid. All my sickness has gone and shows no signs of returning. I take my oath Swamp-Root cured me, and I am glad to say so today, and I can prove it by acquaintances.

Very truly yours, H. RAND.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly overcomes kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, or brick-dust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, heartburn, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, may be loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is also evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women who have been cured by Swamp-Root after no well known case of Swamp-Root after no well known physician could help them. If writing your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the Boston Daily American. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL 96 TYLER-LAST

Secretary Arthur M. Watson of the Carpenters' District Council is to-day sending out circulars to all the lonster carpenters in Boston and vicinity notifying them that the members of the thirty-two locals affiliated with the council expect the Saturday half holiday the year around and an increase of wages 45 cents an hour, beginning May 1. The circular reads:

"Gentlemen: I am instructed by the Carpenters' District Council of Boston and vicinity to notify you that all employers of carpenters of the trade and working conditions covered by the journeymen represented in our organization to go in effect May 1, 1907.

"We have had a trial during the past Summer of the Saturday half holiday, and we believe with mutual benefit both to employer and journeymen. After submitting this matter to our membership for careful consideration they decided by almost unanimous vote that beginning May 1, 1907, we will not work Saturday afternoon.

"In the matter of wages, we feel that we are not yet in receipt of sufficient wages according to the expense of living in this country and that our skill as compared with other trades in the building line. We therefore have decided to establish a minimum rate of 45 cents per hour beginning May 1, 1907, and even then we are far behind any city or country of the size and wealth of ours.

"We believe that thus giving six months' notice of this raise that sufficient time is allowed to you gentlemen to so arrange your estimates and schedules of prices that all work done after that date can be carried on under these conditions.

"I am also instructed to request for the mutual protection of our craft that in hiring carpenters preference will be given to union men carrying our working card. By this means we will eliminate unfair competition.

"We most earnestly request that these propositions be given full consideration by all employers and that we may receive favorable answer in regard to putting these proposed changes into practice.

"Trusting that this slight increase may meet with your approval and that these conditions may continue the same conditions.

On behalf of the C. D. C.

"A. M. WATSON, Sec'y.

"N. B.—We shall be glad to hear the views of any employer on this matter and the representative organization regarding putting these changes in operation.

Clarkson, Wards 18 and 21; Endorsement of Patrick J. Madigan of Ward 21 was rescinded on the ground that it was obtained under false pretenses. The committee which investigated the record of M. F. After You Are Well From Rheumatism

Will You Pay Your Banker $10.

Not a cent in advance—not a penny, remember—until you, yourself, can freely and unhesitatingly say, "I am well again."

Should you begin the treatment, I will let your banker or Express Agent hold the money.

Will you name such conditions, to be completed and entirely free from Rheumatism, expend $10.00? That is what I now promise Rheumatic sufferers, never doubting that my Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy has led me to make and build this remarkable offer. Positively no physician, anywhere, has ever before said, "I will Cure Rheumatism, else make no charge."

I want to get—and must in some way get, every body, every where, to fully and for the first completely understand what I myself now absolutely know, about this unparalleled prescription. The remedy is surely remarkable—then why not the offer? Every Druggist nearly, in America, whether located in hamlet or city, has been, and is now freely selling at $1.00 per bottle, Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy. And yet, strange to say, not one sufferer perhaps in a hundred, ever knows as yet of the remedy and its power to battle against pain. To stir, to awaken this unknowing one, to the power of the knowledge of what this prescription can do, I shall hereby make this offer. Positively no physician, anywhere, has ever before said, "I will Cure Rheumatism, else make no charge."

Reader, you that are well and happy, do an act of humanity. Tell some tortured and suffering one that there is at least one way to health that is entirely free from risk, or of money loss.

For a remarkable change Dr. Shoop, for I must strike a fair-to-all average price. It is true that many will pay $5.00 per bottle, and not two of my remedy, but clearly, exceedingly deep-seated and difficult cases, may require you; twenty, or even a greater number. He, I believe, who has actually suffered long years of unbearable pain, will hardly complain of the price when cured, because perchance, three or more of the bottles are needed in his particular case.

But for those this "No Cure, No Pay" privilege you must write me personally. Simply address—Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Racine, Wis.

Do not trouble your druggist, please, about this. He has no part in this offer, and but will be burdening my medicine, except to sell it at retail, bottle by bottle. Write me instead, today for my "Contract by" agreement. I will send my Book on Rheumatism free to you, if you please, medicinal advice and book on other diseases.

ASSOCIATES ON TICKET GIVE DINNER TO HEARST

BY BOSTON AMERICAN LEASED WIRE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The candidates on the Independence League and Democratic State ticket, who were elected last week, last evening gave a banquet at Delmonico's to William Randolph Hearst, in appreciation of his efforts in the campaign which gave them victory.

Mr. Hearst, in his speech, said:

WILLIAM R. HEARST.

MY FRIENDS—I am very grateful for this testimonial of friendship, and very proud of your expressions of confidence and esteem.

And not only am I proud of this occasion, but I am proud of the fight we have made. It was a hard, hard fight, sword to sword and shield to shield, and I enjoyed it from the beginning to the end—and the end is not yet.

I am proud, too, of the cause we fought for. It is the right, and as soon as the din and dust and confusion of the battle shall subside it will be recognized as the right.

I am proud, also, to think that the cause we fought for won some success in this campaign, and will win complete success later on. I am just as sure that this partial victory foretells a greater victory as I am that the first faint flush of dawn foretells the full glory of the day.

When, as I say, the din and dust of battle shall subside, the essential truth and justice of our principles must be almost universally recognized. Our demands are simply that the great public service corporations shall not include our government among their assets or carry our public servants upon their private payrolls.

Our demands are simply that the principles of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution shall be taken seriously and applied literally; that the government shall be controlled by the majority of the citizens, and conducted for the benefit of the whole people rather than for the special advantage of any particular class.

Our demands are simply that the corporations, while allowed to conduct their own business for their own interests with perfect freedom shall not interfere with the rights of others, and shall not be allowed to control our politics and debauch our electorate.

Our demands are simply that the trusts shall not break the laws and buy immunity; that the legitimate development of organization and combination shall redound to the benefit of the people, and not to their injury through trust extortion and trust oppression.

I know that when these ideas are thoroughly understood they will meet with complete approval, and will not be considered dangerous or "anarchistic" but will be recognized as just and patriotic.

I am sure that the conduct of public office by our elected officials here to-night will do much to make the advantage of these principles clear to all the people, and to give them the utmost confidence in the righteousness of our cause.

I wish to thank you, my friends, for the expressions you have offered of your good will and of your good opinion.

I wish to thank my associates in the business world for their belief that a man who conducts successfully business-es amounting to twelve or fifteen millions annually is not altogether a business idiot and a menace to legitimate business.

I wish to thank the Independent Republicans and the Independent labor voters for their support and for their loyalty in voting, not for me alone, but for the whole ticket.

I wish to thank the trusts and their corrupt servants in office and in control of party machinery for their opposition to me. And I assure them that I will always do my best to deserve their opposition as long as there is a criminal trust to rob the people or a corrupt official to betray the people.

My sincerity is vindicated, for the best proof of my sincerity in opposing the trusts and bosses and machines has been their sincerity in opposing me.

TRUSTS START FIGHT AGAINST CIVIC CONTROL

Press Bureau Flooding Papers With Attacks on Municipal Ownership Idea.

HAS PLENTY OF MONEY

Realizing that the issue of municipal ownership looks is having great effect upon the people, the campaign has been started by a "campaign of education" against the movement that is steadily growing throughout the country in favor of the people, and not the trusts, owning and controlling public utilities.

Through a bureau established in New York the corporations are flooding the newspapers of the country with matter attacking the municipal ownership idea. An offer, which has been sent to all of the New England newspapers (with the exception of one that will be named later), to give the people of this section the fullest opportunity to hear both sides of the question, is as follows:

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

In view of the general interest in municipal ownership, and of the impartiality of obtaining material on the conservative side of the question, we have made arrangements with the Press Association to send free of all charge to such papers that will use it a page of which proof is enclosed.

If you desire to have this sent to you please fill out the enclosed card and send it to us by return mail.

Please also indicate how frequently you could make use of one on this subject.

M. O. Publishing Bureau,
Arthur H. Grant, Editor,
No. 3553 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Send Out Plate Matter.

Behind the bureau there is plenty of money. Who furnishes it? The answer is a simple one. The corporations. For years, starting with the railroads, they have been carrying on just such a campaign. In many instances they have gone so far as to pay for the insertion of their assertions, which appeared as regular news articles.

Ordinarily the corporations only furnish the matter in proof. But that entails the cost of composition on the part of the country editor, so they have adopted the dodge of giving them plate matter, and all the editor has to do is to slip the plate into the form and print the stuff—it saves the cost of setting up other matter and "fills up."

"Back to the Dark Ages."

A sample page of the matter contains an article by Professor Fessenden, entitled "A Menace to Cities," in which he declares that under State or municipal operation of business enterprises "the abdication of self-responsibility and incentive would inevitably produce a condition in industrial development analogous to the dark ages."

Under the heading "An Honest Grafter," another article paints a dismal picture of grafting in present municipal governments, and predicts that under municipal ownership grafters "would flourish like a whole grove of green bay trees."

FATHER DUCEY SEES GRAVE NATIONAL CRISIS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Rev. Father Thomas J. Ducey of the American people and the corrupt methods of the following incidents:

"I think the last Tuesday proved the truth of this, that we are in a serious situation, the result of our present neglect and dishonest and diabolical tricks.

"The editorials in the papers take this view of the situation. The issues of last Wednesday. It was Hughes won in spite of the want of confidence in the State. It was organized by the corrupted Mr. Hughes ... would all that party, and Republican editorials ex- press the belief that he can only do ... by being almost a monopolists and the ... many seek favors ... who seek to control ... offices.

People Must Have Square Deal.

"There must be ... direction of legislation ... trusts and their of- no more gas monopolies ... any more of this ... Hughes, as Governor, ... give the people of this ... a square deal ... the fullest opportunity ... the United States cannot be saved by party.

"Everything combined, Mr. Hearst made a wonderful run. The ... date that they have ... lington, the authorities of the State, the Mayor of the city ... New York practised this ... press. One Republican ... fairness and consideration ... Mr. Hearst while truly and ... porting Mr. Hearst ... Hughes—the New York Press. The Evening News, as a Democratic organ, was the only paper in his favor.

"There is no good in continuing the abuse of Mr. Hearst now that the election is over there should be some manifestation of decency, decorum and exhibition of the people believe Mr. Hearst truly has at heart their betterment, and that he has labored in season and out of season to better their condition and, when they needed it, to generously relieve their wants.

"Trusts Inspire Anarchy."

"The capitalists and trusts unchastely and unchristianly organized are the inspirers of anarchy, socialism and nihilism and, in my judgment, and Mr. Hearst.

"Let us trust now that after the election our people will become calm, dignified and decent, and put aside gloom and hatred, and begin to ... especially ... classes, the capitalistic, the corrupt corporation ... ideas and associations that we are in a serious predicament, and must think seriously and to justify the interest of the people.

"It is high time for the American people to drive the leeches and corrupt monopolists to the wall and ... but to prove that they believe in the common fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of Jesus Christ. They cannot expect the country to recognize that they have any belief in God while they pursue their present highway robbery means against the people."

MOSQUITO WAR FLEET OFF TO SANTO DOMINGO

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Four gunboats will leave New York today for Santo Domingo City, where the United States fleet will give salute to the flag of the island republic. The building, unmooring, equipping and general mustering of this little fleet of mosquito fighters has been carried on with the greatest secrecy and was accomplished only through the friendly offices of the United States Government, which virtually assumed guardianship of the new Dominican republic and is in charge of the collection of its customs.

ELECTION WAR AT HARVARD OF POOR AND RICH

Juniors of Limited Means Put Up Men for Class Offices Against the 'Gold Coast.'

Juniors are battling at Harvard to-day over the election of a class president and secretary. It is in a large measure a battle between poor and rich students. For years the rich students, who have apartments along the stretch of Mt. Auburn street known as the "Gold Coast," have monopolized all the class offices.

But this year two students of great personal popularity, but no riches, have entered the field for the offices of president and secretary. The balloting began at 9 o'clock to-day in the Harvard Crimson office, and the Australian system was used.

H. M. Gilmore, who plays football and is one of the best known men in his class, is the candidate of the men of moderate means. T. Wiggins is a well-to-do student, but is in a measure an independent candidate. The leading candidate is R. Emerson.

J. P. Davis is one candidate for secretary, while the "Gold Coast" men are divided between H. V. Amory, W. B. Comstock and C. W. Burton.

BOGUS OR NOT, ALDERMEN HOLD TO FLAG JUNKET

City Fathers Insist on Carrying Battle Emblem Back to New Orleans.

Despite dispatches from New Orleans which declare that the flag with which the Boston Board of Aldermen proposes to junket to the Crescent City is a bogus one, Councilman Thomas J. Doherty, the father of the junket, and Alderman William Berwin, its "near" father, stuck by their guns to-day, or rather stuck by the junket plan, and reserved their declarations that the flag is the genuine article captured from the New Orleans City Hall by General Butler in 1862 and presented to the city of Boston by the General in the January following.

New Orleans dispatches say that George W. Young, vice-president of the Canal Louisiana Bank and Trust Company, who remembers when Admiral Farragut invested the Crescent City, declares that the only flag General Butler got was a silken scarf made by New Orleans women in secret at the home of a social leader.

According to Mr. Young, sent for the women imposed beneath the pillow of the society woman, and the emblem was delivered to him.

SCALY ECZEMA ALL OVER BODY

Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken Out—Scales and Crusts Formed —Iowa Lady Has Great Faith In Cuticura Remedies for Skin Diseases.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA

"I had an eruption appear on my chest and body and extend upwards and downwards, so that my neck and face were all broken out; also my arms and the lower limbs as far as the knees. I at first thought it was prickly heat. But soon scales or crusts formed where the breaking out was. Instead of going to a physician, I purchased a complete treatment of the Cuticura Remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and I have not seen any signs of a return. I have taken about three bottles of the Cuticura Resolvent, and do not know how much of the Soap or Ointment, as I always keep them with me; probably one half dozen of each.

"I decided to give the Cuticura Remedies a trial after I had seen the results of their treatment in the case of an infant belonging to one of our neighbors. The parent took the child to the nearest physician, but his treatment did no good. So they procured the Cuticura Remedies and cured her with them. When they began using Cuticura Remedies her face was terribly disfigured with sores, but she was entirely cured, for I saw the same child at the age of five years, and her mother told me the eczema had never broken out since. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of. I am, respectfully yours, Emma E. Wilcox, Lincoln, Iowa, Oct. 1, 1905."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor, from Infancy to Age, consisting of Cuticura Soap, Ointment, Pills, Resolvent, 50c. There Is No Better

Sewing Machine

On the Market Than the

"Monarch"

Is that a broad statement? Well, we mean every word of it.

Sewing machine makers have been getting too much profit on their work. Originally it cost a large sum to make the parts of a machine and there were heavy royalties to be paid, but now it is different.

The Henry Siegel Co. Sewing Machine Club

is to help break away from the old moorings. It gives you every advantage of weekly payments and

For a Great Deal Less Than You Can Buy the Same Machine from Any Agent for All Cash.

Before starting these clubs we made a most careful investigation. We wanted to get one which would advertise Siegel methods as long as it lasted. It stands to reason that a Congress of stores like this could afford to connect its name with any but the best. Why, it would be a never-ending tale of complaint to do otherwise.

The result of it all is "The Monarch"—it's our name for it—is the simplest form of sewing machine which will do everything that the most complicated one will, and do it better. Friction points are minimized by ball bearings at every one of them.

Simplicity and efficiency spell perfection in sewing, machine parlance—this machine marvels.

"SIR ANTHONY" REVEALS EVILS OF SNOBBERY

"Sir Anthony" is an awful pleasure, says Sarah Cleaves, in the Boston Herald. It is the third act of a thrilling Chambers's comedy, "Sir Anthony," and she believes her mind is made up that upper classes are not good to eat things for.

"Sir Anthony," a comedy of the snobbish of London, is going to be the first performance at the Park Theatre next Monday afternoon, and it deserves to be. It deals with the question of snobbery. Every actor and actress in the cast could do so well himself, and among them are Edmund Wright Lorimer, Alice Lauriere, Charles Mackay, and the audience which they thoroughly enjoyed it was evident and the thirteen curtain calls at the end of the second act were well earned.

The story, in brief, deals with a gentleman who endeavors to win social and business prestige for his family by living with Sir Anthony Mellish. The idea is pure, but with his money he is not succeeding ways toward his family and friends even including his own wife, who is decidedly effective, except with his sister Sarah and his chum, Robert Ingoldsby, through him.

All is well until Sir Anthony penetrates the snob's advances, he is discovered to be a deceiver by his sister and the engagement and comes near to ending in a duel. It's over-blood. The sister, Sarah, who proves to be the heroine, is also a help to him to his senses in a skilful manner, which is a new idea to the writer. She points to an engraving on the wall, depicting the fight between Ajax and Hector, and says that his was not on the difficulty in to fight his rival. Ajax, she points out, an eye that needs a mustache poultice, but beats his first rival in the moment. She is his employer comes to make things right with him. He does not go to a duel any more.

"Sir Anthony" does not appear. The comedy is cleverly handled by a really capable company, headed by William Norris, who hails from Boston, and has come from musical comedy. Edwin Lowell, whom everyone loves for his "Miss Hobbs," plays the part of Sir Anthony, and of those in it were Maud Crichton and Olive Wyndham, pretty, attractive, graceful girls—play the sister and wife of Robert Ingoldsby, while Joseph Tooby when he gets over his nervousness will make a capital pacificist lover.

Mr. Norris has a very difficult role and he plays it with much feeling. He is correct but he needs more study perfect and gives to it the air of seriousness intended. He appears considerably at that straight comedy is the place for him. Alice Lauriere, young, plays the part looking as a parvenuing as a flock flay society queen, and Verner Clarke's make is a perfect person. The Percy Gay Harper of Mr. Stanley, while not so much evidence as one might wish, was strongly portrayed. Ella Brune, whom Bostonians will always remember for her Prosser in "Candida" on a few weeks ago, has the role of Emily and plays it well, not vividly. Her coolness is delightful.

"WILD NELL" TELLS OF WESTERN PLAINS

Indians and cowboys mounted on trained horses, a wonderful reproduction of a Dakota blizzard, scenes in a Western dance hall and ranch, which is characterized in spirit of true Americanism, is the brief of "Wild Nell, the Child of the Regiment," a four-act play of Western adventure, which had its first production at the Grand Opera House last night. The story is a melodrama of the Western plains, with a decidedly humorous vein running through it in Miriam Prescott, who plays the role of Wild Nell. Be merits are very generous and she has very capable support.

BELASCO PREMIER HERE TO-NIGHT

The first performance on any stage of David Belasco's newest production, "The Rose of the Rancho," will be given at the Majestic Theatre to-night. This will be the first time that Mr. Belasco has given a first performance in Boston, and inasmuch as he makes but one production a year, the first nights are events of more than ordinary importance. The cast is a large one, although undoubtedly be one of the most distinguished in its personnel that ever assembled at a Boston playhouse.

"THE GIRL RAFFLES" IS BUNDLE OF CHEERINESS

Brings Back Memories of Former Days to Front Seat Holders.

If anyone wishes to see a pretty, chic girl, bright and filled with life, they should see Cecil Spooner in her romantic drama, "The Girl Raffles," at the Globe Theatre. As a bundle of cheeriness Miss Spooner seems hard to beat. But then the rest of the cast is not particularly in need of pudding. They all move along smoothly and rapidly, but the ringing treble of the girl Raffles seems to spur them even to greater endeavors.

To a white-haired gent-man in the front of the house last evening there were many things suggestive of those earlier days when he used to take his girl to the theatre. The sure-enough detective was there; sometimes he was a silk hat, but he was a detective just the same. Then, too, he was in love with the girl, mixing up things a little by trying to defend her scheme for robbing Lord Rudsdale's safe, and she had to help him for a couple of times, applause following each rescue, and George Fulmer Morris, as the detective, was a prettier Morris, as the detective, was a prettier Morris than ever before, though he always wore spats and a silk hat. He couldn't help that.

Who was Raffles trying to get into the strong box? Oh, there were some papers in there that would tell who Lord Rudsdale's son was really the daughter of the house, though brought up as a child of Irondsides, a notorious "fence." She has one of the best scrapes in the world to help her, Happy Fuller and Sherry Warren. They had a quarrel, but they got better. It told the delights of being "up-to-date and broad, fearless and bold." There was a scene in the library, overlooking the Hudson, shimmering through the windows open the safe, gets the papers and gives them to Sherry, flanked by Detective Morris, the Chief of New York, and half the police force of New York, expect Raffles. Oh, Raffles is a clever girl. Wouldn't you be clever if you wanted to find out who you were?

But the papers! What became of them? Why, the girl had them all the time, and how she got them is a story of how she got them. But the detective gets them, though brought up as a child of Irondsides, a notorious "fence." She has one of the best scrapes in the world to help her, Happy Fuller and Sherry Warren. They had a quarrel, but they got better. It told the delights of being "up-to-date and broad, fearless and bold." BIG VARIETY IS FEATURE AT KEITH'S

The most ardent Keith enthusiast would find a world of difficulty in picking out the "headliner" from this week's offering, there are so many star numbers that the line is hard to draw. The weakest act is strong, and the bill as a whole is strong beyond ordinary. James J. Morton, as a fun producer pure and simple, got a most aphorical finger under the fifth rib of his audience and kept it there until half his hearers felt like crying out for mercy. And when it's over you wonder why you laughed and what you laughed at—Morton does it all so easily.

An exceptional musical act, extremely entertaining and nothing short of artistic, is given by the Six Cuttys, three young ladies and three young men, whose performance is so far out of the usual musical act class that it seems too bad it is called as such. Edwards Davis and his company present a clever tragedy, "The Unmasking," with all the elements of a Sir-act tragedy. The Four Harveys do wonderful feats of strength and the Four Harveys on the stage with light wire present a performance that is sensational. The two young ladies of the troupe do a cake-walk that is a charming novelty.

"MONS. BEAUCAIRE" BEST OF SEASON

Lovers of the romantic cannot afford to miss "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the Castle Square this week. The novel by Booth Tarkington is brimming over with romance, and the dramatization by Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland carries every bit of it. It is the best play of the season. The plot deals with adventures of the Duke of Orleans, in his efforts to escape marriage and has added piquancy to the role. The unmasking was a surprise. Miss Thais Lawton as Lady Mary Carlisle held the audience completely spellbound. Next to the title role, here is the most important. John Waldron as the Duke of Winchester was a true Briton, and Ben Johnson pleasing in his impersonation of Beau Nash.

TO PRAISE "THE WIDOW" IS TO PAINT THE LILY

Shakespeare once wrote: "To paint the lily, to gild refined gold, is wasteful and ridiculous excess." Had the bard lived in the present time he would have added to these "excesses" "to praise The College Widow." This delightful satire that George Ade has written about the modern undergraduate and college monstrous enthusiasm in the Tremont Theatre last night, with a cast selected from the best of the company that have played it. It never has been better presented.

As Jane Witherspoon, the "College Widow," Miss Evelyn Vaughan is delightful. She has beauty, grace and talent, and even Frances Ring, who made such a success in the part, would not improve upon her work. Thomas Meighan was all that could be desired as Billy Bolton, the famous halfback. "Stub" Talmadge, the busy undergraduate in the hands of Lauranee Wheat furnished a large share of the fun and he was ably seconded by Adeline Dunlap as Bessie Tanner, the athletic girl Gertrude Quinlan as Flora Wiggins, the "prominent waitress," is above criticism as always. Her impersonation is one of the most charming bits of consistent comedy I ever seen on the stage. Every member of the cast deserves special commendation. The play is handsomely staged and runs without a hitch, the work of the crowd as the bleachers during the game being particularly good.

A BIG NOVELTY AT THE ORPHEUM

There is a decided novelty at the Orpheum this week. Nothing like it has ever been seen in this city. It is Jewell's manikins. When the curtain rises a miniature stage, elaborately set, orchestra pit and all in front, and, close to the stage, boxes in the first tier. Gentlemen and women sit and clap, use the lorgnette and do other things like real people. On the stage a regular vaudeville entertainment is given, and the little actors get just like real live actors. The performance of mechanical toys closes with a grand spectacle, with scenery and electrical effects that are marvellous. The whole act is one of amazement and every rest of the program is full of good things. Clever Norton, in their singing, dancing and dialogue, gave the audience an original and most perfect little act and company presented a very amusing playlet, in which Leslie rolled off things by the yard. Avery and Hart, colored entertainers; Joe Welch, inimitable monologist comedian; the Fays, in their wonderful thaumaturgy; the five Majors, who render some good concerted numbers, were acts that pleased the house.

'MAN FROM MEXICO' A LAUGHMAKER

A revival of H. A. du Souchet's farce, "The Man from Mexico," was given to a large audience at the Bijou Theatre last evening, and the appreciation manifested by the audience proved conclusively that farce is "the thing" at this cozy house. Mr. Craig played Fitzhugh, and his funmaking efforts caused storms of laughter. Cecilia McDonald appeared to advantage as Sallie Grelee, and a William Beichell was one of the strong members of the company as Schmidt, the poet. Mary Young played Clementina Fitzhugh, the wife, and the other characters of the familiar piece were well handled. Miss Young's Mexican dance was unusually good.

VIRTUE WINS IN A HEART-INTEREST PLAY

"Hearts Adrift" is one of the most human interest plays that has struck this city for a long time. Yesterday afternoon and evening the Bowdoin Square theatre was crowded. The story is woven around a man trying to live down a wicked past who takes upon himself the blame for a murder in order to save the man falsely accused. In the end the real murderer is exposed, father and children brought together; wrongs are righted and virtue is found to have its own reward.

"MAN WHO WAS" FULL OF PATHOS

With Mr. Willard in the title role it is probable that "David Garrick," although familiar to every theatregoer, will be given over popular to Boston audiences. In his portrayal of the virile actor, Mr. Willard manhood last night at the Colonial Theatre he was no more equal to the task of great to express his thanks to his enthusiastic audience. He showed himself the best in assuming two roles so unlike as he attempted with such overwhelming success that of Garrick. "The Man Who Was," full of pathos and tragedy, as unlike David Garrick's gives full scope to the prowess of this actor whose reputation for versatility is the envy of his fellow actors.

NOTHING SLOW ABOUT THE COLUMBIA SHOW

Nothing was slow about the entertainment of the New Century Girls at the Columbia. The audience was in a state of laughed and applauded to their hearts' content at the funny doings of the lively show. A crowd as has yet been seen at the Columbia. The comedy of Miss Sylvester, was encored time and time again. Jack Mack's Irishman made himself by his extra strong comedy work in the burlesque. In the olio the entertainment was contributed to by the Great Bartell troupe, the "dip of death" feat being of the hair-raising order.

RUNAWAY GIRLS AT THE LYCEUM

Hubtimes of the Lyceum usually count upon seeing something good when Clarke's Runaway Girls come to town, but yesterday's performances gave them their heart's worth. "The Sultan's Talisman," the burlesque which opens and closes the performance, is a winner from start to seal. Abe Reynolds and Bert Wiggin have the privilege of laughmaking comedy and Miss Clare Burg sings. Mollie Williams shared honors with Miss Burg. The Ransey sisters have a meritorious musical act,

Hollis Street Theatre

Peter Pan was at home to friends at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening, and he had a hearty welcome. It was one of the largest audiences of the season, although for three weeks the Hollis has been packed to the doors at each performance. Miss Adams is the darlingest sprite that the Boston stage has ever seen, and each scene of this strange but charming play is given with a charm which she alone possesses.

Boston Theatre

This is the farewell week of "Mamselle Sallie," that very dainty and exceptionally tuneful musical comedy, which, with John Slavin and Katie Barry as the stars, holds forth at the Boston Theatre. Other favorites who score particularly are Florence Dubin and Agnes Finley, the two winsome young donnas; the six "Butterfly Dancers," William P. Carlton, Jr., George E. Mack and Sidney De Gray.

Park Theatre

Francis Wilson and another large audience at the Park had a jolly good time over "The Mountain Climber" and the amusing adventures of Montague Silver in his endeavors to deprive a fond wife. Mr. Wilson's part enables him to utilize all of his entertaining comedy methods, and the company ably assists in the funmaking.

MONSTER FUNFEST AT THE OLD HOWARD

A monster funfest is at the Old Howard this week. May Duryea and Charles Deland have a comedy playlet labelled "The Imposter," which is one of the funniest things that ever got into the burlesque stage. Wills and Hassan more than make good their title as equilibrists and unique acrobats. Mitchell and Cain have a portrayal of Irish types, and Fillers is one of the funniest jugglers imaginable.

PONY CIRCUS AT AUSTIN & STONE'S

A bunch of cute little ponies possessing well-night human intelligence are seen at Austin & Stone's Museum yesterday in a novel program billed as "Ponyland." There were half-a-dozen miniature horses who were the principal part of the show. Diminutive Chiquita, the tiniest horse, and Dewey, the smallest pinto in colors, were particularly admired. Other interesting features of the animal acts were Pilla Marionettes, Ben Hur, the largest snake in captivity, and other attractions, filled out the show. The Majestic bill was in great voice and form.

Only Four Days Remain in Which the Sick Can Take Advantage of the Low Rates Now Being Charged by the Osmo-Chemic Physicians.

The enormous crowds calling at the Osmo-Chemic offices necessitate an increase in their fee. In order to limit the number of patients they will be compelled to raise their fees. The great physicians will treat all persons applying before Nov. 18th at the same low rates that they have been charging in the past. It is important to call at once if you wish to get the benefit of the present low rates.

All persons applying before Nov. 18th at the offices of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians will be treated at the same low rate which they have been charging in the past. Understand, it is important to call at once if you wish to get the benefit of the present low rates. They would like to announce that the fee will positively be raised after Nov. 18th, so the strength of the physicians for the next few days will be taxed to the utmost to cope with the enormous crowds calling at their offices. They would also like to announce that after Nov. 18th it will be impossible for the Osmo-Chemic Physicians to cope with the crowds making their offices their headquarters, and they will be compelled to limit the number of patients they will treat.

They would like to announce that the fee has been made low for the purpose of giving the strength of the physicians for the benefit of the sick, and they do not wish patients seeking this benefit to be disappointed unnecessarily on account of the fee, but if you wish to take advantage of their treatment at the same low rate which has been charged in the past. This is your last chance to be cured at such low rates.

THE NEW LIGHT TREATMENT

SYMPTOMS OF BRONCHIAL DISEASE

MATRON OF VASSAR COLLEGE

Mrs. E. L. Wilder, who resides at 55 Spring street, Watertown, natron of Vassar College, writes: "I had been suffering with a bad cough, sleepless nights and terrible pains in my head, stomach and bowels ever since I was a little girl. Catarrhozone relieved me from suffering for thirty years and I am glad to say that I am cured. I did not know that I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels, but I read of the new light treatment of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians while sick in bed. I needed new light on my trouble, and as soon as I was able I applied to them for treatment. Every word they wrote me was full of kindness and understanding, and after a few months' treatment, during which I suffered greatly, I received nothing from the first treatment. I feel so much better that I am glad to testify to the success of the Osmo-Chemic treatment and the skill which they possess. Any one who will write me, enclosing a stamped envelope, will receive full information concerning my case."

MOTHER AND SON

Mrs. E. A. Scott, 32 E. Lenox street, Boston, says: "I had been troubled for many years with catarrh and taken a great deal of medicine, but never found any relief until I began to use Catarrhozone. I have also used the cures of the Osmo-Chemic physicians that I applied to them for help in my catarrhal difficulties, and the claims are wonderfully skilful. They handled my case in a manner that I was pleased with, and I was benefited at once, I continued their treatment, and am better now than I have felt in years. My son was also cured of catarrh of the stomach and bowels, and we cheerfully recommend that he has no trouble with his stomach now."—Signed, Mrs. E. A. Scott.

GUNTHER LOST TO LANGFORD BY LITTLE

Special to the Boston American.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—At the Valley Falls Club last night Sam Langford of Boston defeated George Gunther of Philadelphia in a rattling twelve-round bout before one of the biggest crowds that ever turned out at a local mill.

It was one of the toughest battles with gloves ever seen in this section, and there was a very small margin in Langford's victory and quite a little dissatisfaction over the decision became a differential stronger finish.

For half the distance Langford kept in front, inflicting terrible punishment in clinches by pounding the kidneys. The Boston slugger seemed to slow down in the closing rounds, when Gunther made his rally to even matters.

Gunther had a lot of respect for Langford's right hand and kept out of its range, but he could not escape several steamy crosses that had effect but failed to stop him. After travelling several rounds Gunther grew careless, depending on getting a chance blow over to do damage, and though doing a lot of forcing, he had poor direction and few of his blows delivered.

Gunther stood up well under the frightful body punches which Langford slammed into him when they both were tied up. They fought straight rules, and in every round both were jamming left in jolts, at which game Langford did the most execution. Langford landed the cleanest blows and put on some crushers to the jaw with a bunch of savage left hooks to the head at close quarters, yet Gunther was always ready to take more. Langford driven on the body in clinches threatened to open Gunther's diaphragm. As the contest aged Gunther appeared to be feeling them, as he crept in closer, but Langford kept his battering left bony snapping it over on the jaw while their heads were close together. Langford was a hot favorite when he entered the ring, with plenty of 2 to 1 money on him.

They fought at catch weights, which favored Langford, as he had about ten to fifteen pounds the advantage. After wrestling and pounding in clinches, Langford put over a straight left and crossed his right.

It looked bad for Gunther in the opening round. Again in the fourth round Langford connected with a right to the jaw which caused Gunther to stall a bit. He repeated the dose in the next round and rocked Gunther with a left to the head. The Kangaroo seemed in the middle of Graydon, full back on the 1904 Harvard team.

Tigers' Mass Meeting.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13.—The Tigers are in the throes of a slump.

Nothing could be more singular than the fact that a mammoth mass meeting was held to-night in Alexander Hall. Heretofore it has been the custom of the university to get together on the Thursday night before the Yale game. Now, however, the situation demands immediate attention, and the players need all the encouragement they can get.

The main cause of this early outburst is the weakened condition that the Tigers are in to-day. Above all, Eddie Dillon, the wonderful little quarterback, is out of the game for a few days at least.

Yesterday afternoon only a few of the regulars got into the scrimmage, which lasted twenty minutes. Mercereau, Dillon Miller and Harlan were drilled separately by Phil King. This trio does not lack speed, but there seems to be little unity in the attack.

Roome Back in Togs.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Nov. 13.—Yale's football coaches have had too many upsets this season to invent imaginary troubles and they were too much disheartened to-day to discuss the injury to Captain Morse, which has reasserted itself since Saturday. Yesterday he was in no condition to even run through signals. Roome got into the play at fullback for the scrubs against the substitutes. He was on defense, but backed his way to a touchdown.

The varsity team, minus the regular backfield save "Ted" Jones, had a brisk 15-minute half against the scrubs and scored two touchdowns. The scrubs were kept on the defensive throughout.

Tufts Men on Edge.

The Tufts varsity commenced their last week of practice yesterday afternoon at Tufts Oval, Medford. Each man is trained to the dot; and the coaches will have a severe problem before them this week to prevent several of the men from going stale. Greene, Sheehy and Peterson in particular.

Brown in Good Shape.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 13.—The Brown team was given a rest yesterday and no work was attempted. All the varsity men came through the Yale game in good shape. The work for the week is to be of the lightest nature and just hard enough to keep the men in trim. Brown plays Vermont Saturday, which will give a good opportunity to work some second string men.

Snow Mars Practice.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 13.—Owing to the snow the Green was given light work yesterday. Fast signal practice, getting down on punts and dummy tackling were run through, and the team given fast exercise in the gym. Joe Gilman, the old guard, and Donnelly of the '06 team showed up on the coaching line. O'Connor and McCormack are expected.

The team showed up well in the short practice and no serious injuries resulted from the Amherst game. This week will be devoted to new football practice of the hardest kind in order to met Harvard Saturday. The victory over Amherst has given great stimulus to the team.

Easy Day at Stadium and Other Gridirons

VARSITY MEN LAID OFF

As usual on Monday light practice was given the Harvard varsity yesterday in the Stadium.

The six members of the regular varsity who were out on the field had no serious wage work whatever, and the subs and the second eleven were only allowed to play a 15 minute game. Keeseberg, Burr, Starr, Osborne, Newhall and Wendell were given a rest altogether.

Nate Hall was given a thorough try-out as a drop kicker but his efforts met with indifferent success.

Special attention was paid to drop kicking all afternoon. Harvard does not seem to have any strong man for this department this year, when a strong man at kicking goals from the field is such a great asset for a team, as most of the games seem to stay near the middle of the field on account of the 10-yard rule.

Miller and Orr, the two ends who have been laid up with injuries for the past couple of weeks, were in the scrimmage again yesterday, and seemed not to have lost any of their former ginger and rush. One new man at end also was tried out: "Lamb" Graydon, the brother of Captain

CRACK PACERS MAY MEET FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

A race for the quarter-mile speedway pacing championship of Massachusetts is the latest proposition in matinee sport, and is brought about through Charles S. Mayo of Lawrence believing he owns in Clinton R., 2:08¼, the king of them all.

The Haverhill Driving Club awarded him the silver cup for having the fastest pacer in the series of matinees over their speedway this year. In one of the events Clinton R. stepped the quarter in 29½ seconds against Rosoe, which is the record for that distance in the State.

Mr. Mayo thinks it would be a good idea to arrange a match between his gelding, Willoughby and Bunker Hill, in order to find which can carry off the purse, and is willing to have the race decided over the Franklin Field Speedway, showing his fairness in the matter.

Till recently Mr. Mayo was president of the Lawrence Driving Club, but he resigned from the office on account of the organization wanting to take the professional in place of the amateur part in racing. His idea is that the driving club should stick to the cup and ribbon trophies outside of possibly one meeting in the year.

NO FREAK CARS CAN RACE AT ORMOND

BY J. C. KERRISON.

This talk about freak cars competing at Ormond is very threadbare to those who have witnessed contests on that course in the past. "If the powers that be will enforce the present racing rules, and those arguing for new sections would observe the present ones, there would be much less trouble," said one of the local men who has been a constant visitor to the Southern carnivals. Continuing, he said: "As a member right there was considerable argument regarding freaks last January. There was also some argument regarding a car that was not quite ready to start when the other competing in the several events. There is now in the racing rules a clause which says no car without a differential shall compete in races. Such a car was never allowed to compete not in one but in many of the regularly scheduled events, and it contained one or two prizes at that. Maintain your present rules. Do not go looking for others. Then things will be easier."

The Harding Mercedes which was all but destroyed by fire at the Readville races in May has been thoroughly overhauled and is now almost ready for a Winter's campaign in the sunny South. Since his disaster of Memorial Day Joe Dwyer has been busily engaged in getting the old record-breaker into shape. Every part and parcel of her has been thoroughly overhauled and painted, so that to-day one is unable to tell a car right out of the factory in Germany. She will be ready for business within a few days, and if things go as they are expected Mr. Harding will be among the contestants in the South.

He will this year have the advantage of a year's experience in racing and arguing, which latter has become very valuable in all motor racing. It is planned to take the car South and participate in the long distance as well as the sprint events.

The Bay State Automobile Company of 1,004 Boylston street has received two models of the 1907 Queen, which together with the special car of its own construction will form its line this season. The success which greeted the Queen in the annual work last season was such as to make its manufacturers satisfied with the construction, so that whatever changes have been made in this season's output are merely matters of constructive detail. One of the models on hand is finished in blue with gold striping, and the other in black. They are both of the four-cylinder type, 26-28 horse power, and capable of travelling forty-five miles an hour. Sales Manager Rossell is perfectly satisfied with the present outlook, and predicts a good season of business with the Queen.

A new Winton feature makes it impossible to run out of gasoline by accident. Even if a motorist has been stranded miles from a town for want of supply because he forgot that the gasoline was running low. But with the new Winton tank overflowing even the driver's forgetfulness. One end of the main gasoline tank is made into a separate three-gallon reserve compartment that fills every time the main tank is filled. The reserve supply cannot be used, however, until the main tank has run dry. Then, when the operator turns a valve, permitting the use of the reserve supply, he has the car for a time of supply. This is a new wrinkle that, by preventing stranding, will save the temper of many a motorist.

Wagner's Darrach, with which he won the last Vanderbilt cup race, has been shipped back to France but it probably will return here after the Paris show in December, to be exhibited with the other foreign racers at the national show in Madison Square Garden, January 12-19. The Darrach car that won the Vanderbilt race in 1905 has been bought by E. R. Stevens, who is expected to race in Florida.

One of the things that the beginner at the motorcycle soon finds it imperative to improve upon him is the fact that it is necessary to exercise more care in rounding corners than with the leg driven machine. It is so easy to run so very much faster with the motor driven that it is with the bicycle that one or two experiences at trying to take a corner as speed to bring home to many beginners that running straight ahead with a clear road and getting around a curve of short radius are two very different things. Shut off the power well in advance of reaching the corner, slow down and then, if you will keep the machine in easy control. If this were always done there would be fewer close shaves from finding that the curve could only be taken at a comparatively high speed or that something such as a furniture van or trolley car loomed up unexpectedly in just the course that the rider expected to follow.

MURPHY WON'T SWAP THREE FOR LUMLEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—President Murphy of the Cubs made a strenuous denial of the report that he had offered to trade outfielders Slagle and Hoffman and Pitcher Reulbach for Right Fielder Lumley of the Brooklyn team.

"I wouldn't trade Hofman, even up, for Lumley," said Mr. Murphy. "Last Winter I was after Lumley and made Brooklyn a great offer for the player, but that doesn't mean that I have been bought by E. R. Stevens, who is expected to race in Florida.

DRAFT SWANSON FOR START

Hugh Duffy and Fred Dee have returned from New York, having made their deal with Pat Powers for the Providence club.

In looking over the New England League talent, the new magnates selected Pitcher Swanson of the Fall River club as the most likely of the young bay men, and a check for $500 was forwarded yesterday to John H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association, with the notice of draft of that player. Means, Duffy and Dee will have several new players in Providence next season, and are confident that the venture will be a big success.

ROSEBEN WON BAY VIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—On a heavy track, Roseben, second choice, at 11 to 5, won the Bay View Handicap, seven furlongs, at Aqueduct. He carried 146 pounds and conceded weight to his entire field. He went the distance in 1:27 2-5.

CRACK ELEVENS MEET THANKSGIVING DAY

C. P. C. A. VS. HOLY NAME

Residents of South Boston have a treat in store for them for Thanksgiving Day afternoon, as on that day the crack eleven of the City Point Catholic Association and the Holy Name club of St. Vincent's Church will line up at the Locust Street Grounds. There is intense rivalry between the two teams, and the game is bound to be one of the most exciting ever seen in the Peninsular District.

C. P. C. A., which has only been defeated once in its successful career, and has a strong eleven of Gerald Cross last season, will put the same team it organized on the field as it is realized that the Holy Name Club will be a hard opponent, and in order to win C. P. C. A. will have to play hard and clever all the time.

John O'Reilly, the well-known coach, who has been drilling the fast teams of South Boston and English High Schools this season, is coaching the C. P. C. A. men every night at the M Street Playgrounds. He predicts they will triumph over their rival by a goodly margin.

Although the C. P. C. A. team has not been finally picked, one must say that men who will play the different positions in the team are known, and they will chiefly consist of former college stars.

The backfield will most likely consist of Halfbacks Fred O'Brien of Bridgewater Normal and Vin Loughlin, for H. L. A. stars; Fullback, McLaughlin of Somerville High, and quarterback Jim Loughlin, former E. H. S. player. Lawrence Duffy, former E. H. S. man, will play centre; Lewis Cross, E. H. S., and Hamilton, of Cathedral A. A. will be guards; Curl Cross, who has played on the Duffy A. teams for years, and Bill Potch, late of the Holy Name Club, will be tackles, and Bill Sullivan, former E. H. S. emcke, will man the ends.

Although the makeup of the Holy Name team is not known, but on hearing it is safe to say that they will put a cracker-jack team in the field, and it is even hinted that they have hired professionals in order to beat the strong City Point aggregation.

CHICAGO MAY HAVE BOXING

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Boxing bouts may be held in Chicago this Winter after all. Mayor Dunne said to-day that it was the opinion of Corporation Counsel Lewis that boxing could be permitted, providing no purses were contested for and no entrance fee charged.

Chief Collins says if that is legal he would make no attempts to stop any bouts.

Chairman Eycott C. Dorsey of the C. A. A. says that the Chicago athletic association would give boxing matches under any conditions subscribed to by Mayor Dunne and Chief Collins.

WHY FLIRTS DON'T MARRY

BEATRICE FAIRFAX Points Out That a Man Usually Prefers to Marry a Girl Who Is Not So Popular Rather Than One Who Has Been Many Times Engaged

THE GIRL WHO ENCOURAGES A MAN SIMPLY TO ADD TO HER LIST OF CONQUESTS IS DOING A GRAVE WRONG

By Beatrice Fairfax

TO encourage a man to propose to you when you have not the remotest idea of accepting him is a pretty poor sort of fun, girls.

It's all very well to say you are surprised and that you had no idea he was serious, but down in your heart you did know he was serious, and if you had done the right thing you would never have allowed him to get to the proposing point.

A girl always knows when a man is in love with her, and if she encourages him merely for the sake of adding to her list of conquests she is doing a grave wrong.

There is no harm in a girl having as many men friends as she likes, but when she sees that any man is growing to think of her as more than a friend she should put a stop to it unless she returns his love.

You may have noticed that the girls who marry first are not always the girls who have had the most attention.

The girl who has a great many men dangling after her sometimes put off settling down until some fine day she awakens to the fact that her attractions are on the wane. Other girls, who had not so many beaux, have married and are established in happy homes.

Some girls have the engagement habit. They think the more of becoming engaged than they do of going to the theatre. They have no idea of marrying and are engaged simply for the sake of having a man to go about with and to let the world see that they are belles. Naturally it happens sometimes that a girl makes a mistake. She thinks she loves a man and finds after she has become engaged to him that she does not. In that case the only thing to do is to tell the truth and break the engagement.

Not long ago two men of my acquaintance were talking about a girl whom one of them had met but once.

"She's pretty, isn't she?" he said, of that girl," the other replied. "Yes, she's pretty enough, but she's been engaged to half the fellows in town. I prefer somebody who isn't quite so popular. No fellow wants to marry a girl who has been engaged to every man he knows."

Don't spoil your matrimonial chances by having too many men around you. If you establish a reputation as a flirt and jilt no nice man will want you for his wife.

Of course the girl who allows men to be familiar with her will always have a certain amount of attention. But it is not the kind of attention that a girl should be proud of. And the very men who crowd about her will be the ones who will make fun of her behind her back and speak disrespectfully of her.

It is no compliment to be called a flirt, though it would be hard to convince a good many girls of the fact.

A flirt means a cold-hearted woman who lends men on to care for her when she has no thought of returning their affection.

Be friendly and sincere with your men friends, but be satisfied to keep them as friends, without leading them on to fall in love with you.

Don't Drag Your Love Through the Mire of a Breach of Promise Suit

The Woman Who Does Degrades Her Name and Casts Disgrace Upon True Womanhood

By Dorothy Dix

I HAVE a letter from a young girl that tells a story that is one of the sad, familiar tragedies of life. Six years ago this woman became engaged to a man with whom she was deeply in love, and who professed affection for her, but who was not ready to marry, and asked her to wait for him.

She did.

She denied herself attentions from other men, and cut herself off from the opportunities of marriage that might have come to her in her blooming girlhood.

Now the man has proven faithless. He has tired of the girl who waited for him so patiently, and is going to marry another woman, and my correspondent asks me what she shall do.

Out of the depths of her sore and bruised heart she cries out that she wants revenge, and asks can she get any satisfaction by suing him for breach of promise.

I wish that I might speak to her with the voice of angels, and entreat her, implore her not to degrade herself and shame her womanhood by doing anything so vulgar as to drag her slain love into a court of law and have a jury assess the damage to it in dollars and cents, as if it were a calf killed by a railroad train, or a piece of furniture broken by a careless lodger.

Only a Trick

THE breach of promise suit is the trick of the adventuress—of the female grafter—who is willing to get money out of a man at any price, even the price of her pride, and decent women should have nothing to do with it.

Of course, respectable women do resort to it now and then, but they are of a fibre so coarse that one would think that the men they sue would be willing to pay any amount of money rather than marry them.

A woman's youth is as much her harvest time of opportunity as the Summer is the harvest time of the year. It is the time when she has practically all the chances she ever has to marry, and if she foregoes these for the sake of the man to whom she is betrothed she has sustained a definite financial loss. Just as much as if she had been prevented from entering into a profitable business partnership.

Money No Cure

NO wonder that such a woman wants to be revenged on the man who has thwarted her, who has won and has thrown away her youth and beauty, only to throw her aside for a younger and fairer face—who has given her treachery for her faith, and disappointment for her waiting, but there is absolutely no way in which she can balance her account with him.

Least of all can she do it by suing him for breach of promise. Money can not compel the man to marry her unless he wants to, nor can she heal the wounds in her soul with a poultice made of greenbacks.

The woman who has been jilted has been grievously wronged, but she has no legal consolation, the respect and sympathy of all who know her as long as she wraps the mantle of silent dignity about her pride.

Not so if she takes her troubles into court, and attempts to make a man pay for the tender words he has written her, the foolish love talk he has given her with so much affection when, in every onlooker, a object of jest and laughter for the rabble, a creature with the shell

GOULD HEIRESS GETS DIVORCE FROM CASTELLANE

COUNT BONI LOSES ALL

WHAT CASTELLANE DIVORCE MEANS

Boni loses his wife and three sons.
The count must pay the entire cost of divorce proceedings.
He must now live on the $7,000 granted his father by the Countess.
Declared a bankrupt, his debts are $5,000,000.
He loses his social position and membership in clubs.
As a bankrupt, the Count must resign from the Chamber of Deputies.
Countess Anna, at the age of thirty-one years, is free.
She can bring her children to America with the court's permission.
She is no longer responsible for Boni's extravagances.

French Court Frees Countess from Spendthrift Husband Who Now Faces Bankruptcy With $5,000,000 of Debts.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Divorce, absolute and final, was to-day granted the Countess de Castellane, who was Anna Gould of New York, by the Tribunal of the First Instance of the Seine, from the Count de Castellane. By the court's decree the wife is given the custody of their three children forever. With the permission of the court she may take them anywhere.

The Countess pays the Count no allowance and is responsible for none of his expenditures in the future.

Count Must Pay Whole Costs of Case.

By the Court's decree the Count is compelled to pay the entire costs of the proceedings. This forces him to formally become a bankrupt in the eyes of the law, and he will at once be compelled to resign his seat in the Chamber of Deputies, as no bankrupt may hold a seat there.

As read from the bench, the verdict was generally accepted as allowing Count Boni alimony amounting to $30,000 a year, but a closer perusal of the court's order later in the day revealed the fact that the defendant had not only been denied any allowance, but in addition had been assessed for the cost of the proceedings.

The possibility of Countess Anna's re-marriage is not touched in the court's decision, and the general interpretation is that she will be free to wed again should she choose.

MANY DUELS THREATENED.

By deciding the case from the documents submitted and by not having an open trial the Count was probably saved meeting in duels some of the husbands of the women who would have been brought into the case. There were twelve married and one single woman mentioned. Visions of duels were in the air here for a time, but they have now been dissipated.

While the Countess is given the custody of the children, George, Boni and Jay, Boni is to be allowed to see them twice each week at his mother's home, and will have them for a week during the Winter holidays and at Easter, as well as for a month every summer.

A notary will be appointed by the court to arrange a complete financial settlement between the parties.

HOW BONI MET AND WON ANNA GOULD

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Penniless and his very travelling and boarding expenses paid by a Paris restaurateur who represented his creditors, Count Boni de Castellane was sent to America in the Fall of 1894, to make good his debts by marrying an heiress. His title, a French badge of courtesy, was his only capital.

Ostensibly, Count Boni was the agent of a great Paris wine house, but in fact his expenses were paid at last chance by his creditors. In the hope that he would catch and marry an American fortune with his empty title. The young man at first occupied a ball room in a modest boarding house. His financial backers saw to it that he was able to make a possible appearance.

Count Boni made his bow to real American society at Newport. There he became the rage, and his Paris creditors were delighted. He was backed more heavily, including Colonel Drinkwater, were reported, was on the afternoon of February 6, 1895, that Miss Anna Gould and the Count Paul Ernest Boni de Castellane walked into the drawing room of Sir Roderick Cameron's house in Armchair, Staten Island, and announced that they were engaged to be married.

An Eye to Business.

They said that the wedding would take place within three weeks, and the Count, with an eye to serious business, notified his friends and creditors that he was to receive a settlement of $2,000,000 on the day of their marriage.

Miss Gould had been admired by many American men of position and responsibility. However, the count had been the more ardent in his wooing. He and been a frequent visitor at George J. Gould's home in Lakewood, had followed the hounds in parties in which Miss Anna was always included, and his attentions had assumed so marked a degree, and were so fervently received, that all other potential suitors withdrew.

Miss Gould was then but twenty-three

DRAWS MORAL FROM CASTELLANE CASE

The BOSTON AMERICAN to-day presents to its readers a sermon by Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, bringing out the lessons that may be drawn from the De Castellane divorce. The sermon is as follows:

BY HERBERT S. JOHNSON,
Pastor of Warren Avenue Baptist Church.

If I owned a yellow dog and lacked a name for him I should call him Boni de Castellane.

Many an underpaid shop girl in Boston has achieved far more of real happiness and success in life than Anna Gould. It is better to have but one good meal a day in an attic room of a lodging house than to sit at a feast in a palace with a debauchee. It is better to have a lone kitten or a canary bird for a companion than a husband who despises his solemn vow.

American Girls Have Forgotten God

The trouble with many of our American girls who have wealth, and with many who do not have it, is that they do not know the real meaning of life. They have forgotten God. They would never be fascinated by the glamour of a great name or the glitter of a diadem or ribbon if they were able occasionally to catch a glimpse of the great judgment seat. The tallow candle is not bright when the sun has risen. Let our Americans come back to the family altar. Let us teach our girls to know at least enough about God so that they will bow before His name as readily as to before the coronet of a worn-out French aristocrat.

Is it not a biting thought to many an Anna Gould that she has not been as useful to the world as her own cook or scrub woman? Taught by the tragedy of her unhappy home and that of Consuelo Vanderbilt shall not our American girls of every class, and especially the wealthy, turn to useful ideals? Let them know that one of the most effective forces for good citizenship in the United States ought to be the influence of the daughters of great American houses.

Have Leisure and Great Opportunity.

Such young women have abundance of leisure, or rather they might have it. They have the prestige of great wealth; they have peculiar opportunities of culture; they have money with which to carry out plans for the social betterment. Let them remember the poor children of the slums of our great cities. Is it necessary to spend $175,000 on a bedroom ceiling to insure happiness? Ten thousand dollars spent in the cause of Congo reform in the United States would save the people of the Congo Free State from the wretchedness of Hell.

Yes, five thousand dollars would free their black sisters from the horror of being cut into pieces like sheep and hogs, while still living, and then being roasted and eaten.

NEGRO SEIZES RIFLE

Mad Desperado Overpowers Man and Takes Gun Away from Him.

ROCKLAND, Me., Nov. 14.—Armed with a repeating rifle and ammunition which he seized from a hunter whom he overpowered, Minot St. Clair Francis, the convict who escaped from State prison at Thomaston on Monday, was seen near Lincolnville early to-day. Five hundred armed men are in hot pursuit of the desperado and are confident of soon coming up with him.

Early to-day a storekeeper of Lincolnville, four miles north of Camden, found that his store had been broken into and canned goods and other eatables taken. It is almost certain that Francis rifled the store to save himself from starvation.

All the country around Camden is being scoured to-day by the posse of men and boys. Late last night a young man who was coming back from the woods

GETTING READY FOR NATIONAL CAMPAIGN

A conference of New England Democrats called by Alexander Troup of New Haven and George Fred Williams of Boston, was held at the Quincy House to-day.

Although stories have been repeatedly published to the effect that the purpose of the conference was to establish a Bryan league in New England, the promoters said to-day that the purpose of the meeting was not specific in any respect, but general in its scope and intended to better the general conditions and prospects of the Democratic party.

In excluding newspaper reporters from the conference, Mr. Williams said a report of the deliberations would be given out by Mr. Troup later in the day, when a recess would be taken. Asked if he would state the general idea of the gathering, Mr. Williams declined, saying all the points which the conferees desired to have reported would be embodied in Mr. Troup's statement to the press.

Fifteen Delegates Present.

Mr. Troup called the meeting to order at 12 o'clock. Fifteen delegates were present, three from Massachusetts, five from Connecticut, five from Rhode Island and two from New Hampshire.

Those present, besides Mr. Williams and Mr. Troup, were: George M. Wallace, George Gay, Harrison H. Hewitt of New Haven, Senator Kennedy of Norwalk, Ct., ex-Governor Garvin of Rhode Island, George W. Greene of Pawtucket, Judge Frank E. Fitzsimmons of Warwick, Peter C. Canoso of Warren and P. H. Quinn of Providence, Napoleon J. Dyer and Henry T. Ledoux of New Hampshire, Major Robert J. Crowley of Lowell and William F. Conaery of Lynn.

Invitations to the number of 100 were issued. No one responded from Vermont. Hon. Fred W. Plaisted and Hon. Cyrus W. Davis, the latter late Democratic candidate for Governor of Maine, were invited, but were not present.

George E. Hughes, national committeeman from Maine, also failed to attend. R. R. Smalley, John H. Reuter and T. F. Maloney, the "big three" of Vermont, did not respond. Mr. Maloney was the Democratic candidate for Governor of Vermont two years ago.

Governor-Elect Higgins Absent.

Governor-elect James E. Higgins of Rhode Island, the only Democratic winner in New England, and ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Pawtucket, R. I., the leader of the State Democracy, were absent. Two of the Massachusetts men invited were John B. Moran, Chairman John F. Fenton of the State Committee, Chet Monsmann of Haverhill, Alton B. Parker, Governor Lawrence, William F. Gaffey of Lynn, Major Crowley of Lowell, William Lawrence of Greenfield and Mr. Williams.

Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, National Committeeman William A. Gaston, Josiah Quincy, Congressman McCarthy, Sullivan and Reilher were not invited to the conference.

At 1:30 the conference, which had been in secret session, adjourned for dinner. Chairman Alexander Troup called all the reporters in and gave out a portion of the proceedings, aided by Secretary Robert J. Crowley.

He said the meeting was the result of the trip to New York to welcome Mr. Bryan home.

Favor Public Control.

It was decided, he said, not to adopt a platform of principles, leaving that matter to the State and national conventions, and instead it was voted to hold meetings and debates in the various States, the matter being left to the following committee: George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, George M. Wallace of Connecticut, Dr. George L. Crockett of Maine, N. J. Dyer of New Hampshire, George W. Greene of Rhode Island.

Dr. Crockett of Maine, N. J. Dyer of New Hampshire, George M. Wallace of Connecticut, William P. Conaery of Massachusetts and T. F. Fitzsimmons of Rhode Island were appointed a committee to name officers of the new organization.

It was voted to favor direct legislation, the initiative and the referendum and public control of public utilities. Dr. Crockett of Maine, Henry L. Ledoux of New Hampshire, Henry L. Lloyd of Massachusetts, George W. Greene of Rhode Island, Senator Brennan of Connecticut were appointed a committee to propagate those ideas throughout New England.

Ex-Governor Garvin of Rhode Island made a motion which was adopted that the consideration of candidates and platform be postponed for one year.

Troup Going to Nebraska.

After making this routine statement as to the proceedings, Mr. Troup was asked by several reporters if the meeting was not for the purpose of indorsing the nomination of Bryan.

"Decidedly not," was his reply, "and it is an unwarranted lie, whoever says so. His candidacy was never dreamed of, nor the candidacy of anybody else."

"Why did you not invite Mayor Fitzgerald, Colonel Gaston, Josiah Quincy, Congressman McNary and other leading Democrats?" was asked by one reporter.

"We left the whole matter with George Fred Williams. He could invite whom he pleased, and no doubt he did."

"Are you not going to Nebraska to see Mr. Bryan to tell him how this meeting came out?" was asked of Mr. Troup.

"Yes, I am going to Lincoln and will be Mr. Bryan's guest Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week. Of course, I will tell him of the meeting and anything else of interest."

Mr. Troup was asked a final question: "Was not this meeting for the purpose of organizing clubs throughout the New England States for Bryan?"

"Not especially for Bryan, but for any candidate the party nominates."

The meeting then adjourned to meet again at 3 o'clock.

George Fred Williams was called away from the conference while the discussion was going on, and some new arrivals, including Colonel Drinkwater, were reported.

Help Those NEAREST TO YOU

That Is a Pretty Good Rule of Life. Without It the World Could Not Go On

Mrs. Russell Sage inherited a large fortune. She means to dispose of it wisely and philanthropically, in accordance with her best judgment.

The first announcement that is made by this lady is certainly admirable. She justifies the confidence which her husband showed in her ability to dispose judiciously of so great a sum of money.

Mrs. Sage begins her charitable work BY GIVING CONSIDERABLE PRESENTS TO THOSE IMMEDIATELY ABOUT HER—EMPLOYES IN HER FAMILY—AND BY DOUBLING THE SALARIES OF THE EMPLOYES IN HER HUSBAND'S OFFICE.

In this particular kind of liberality there is a lesson for many of us.

We hear much about GIVING in these days, and we see many announcements about "charity" in the newspapers.

There seems to be much desire to give away money in such a fashion as to create a loud noise and bring in the greatest possible amount of advertising.

If every human being in the world would try to do his best FOR THE MAN, WOMAN OR CHILD NEXT TO HIM, things would run more smoothly in our troubled civilization.

Many a man who swells out his chest and puts his name down for a liberal contribution to something he knows nothing about REFUSES TO PAY HALF ENOUGH TO THE SERVANT GIRL WORKING IN HIS HOUSE OR TO THE MARRIED MAN WHO GIVES HIM LONG AND FAITHFUL HOURS OF HONEST EFFORT.

The woman who dashes around gayly to charity teas and bazaars, spending money noisily, might be a good deal more useful and less CONSPICUOUS if she made up her mind to inquire about conditions in the home of her washerwoman or her seamstress.

A few dollars spent kindly—AS A FRIEND, NOT AS CHARITY—in some home where a baby has just arrived, or in some house where death has entered, would do a good deal more to help on the world than the spending of large sums in a less personal way.

As a matter of fact, the only thing that lets this civilization of ours go on at all is the charity of one man to the man NEXT to him—usually this is the charity OF A POOR MAN OR WOMAN FOR A POOR MAN OR WOMAN.

The thousands of people dispossessed from their homes ARE TAKEN IN BY PEOPLE JUST AS POOR, NEXT DOOR.

The poor man or woman taken to the police station, and briefly described by the ambulance doctor as a person DYING OF STARVATION, is helped, not by some grand charity society, BUT BY THE POLICEMAN WHO PUTS HIS HAND IN HIS POCKET AND SENDS OUT FOR WHAT THE UNFORTUNATE CREATURE NEEDS.

Intelligent liberality on a great scale is a fine thing.

As long as our Government and our people haven't the brains TO BUILD GREAT UNIVERSITIES FOR THEMSELVES, it is nice to have Mr. Rockefeller and the other gentlemen building these institutions with trust money.

The time will come, however, when humanity AS A WHOLE will have the intelligence to create what it needs—to build its schools, its universities, its hospitals, its playgrounds, WITHOUT ASKING THE CHARITY OF THE GREAT.

But the time will NEVER come when this world can go on WITHOUT THE KIND FEELING OF THE MAN FOR THE MAN NEAREST TO HIM.

The day will never come when this world can dispense with the friendliness—NOT CHARITY—which the kind man shows to his neighbor.

We advise readers who have the desire to feel that they are of some use in the world to take a lesson from Mrs. Russell Sage and begin their work, AS SHE HAS BEGUN HERS, by doing something for the person NEAREST AT HAND.

The End of the Guillotine

The determination of the French Cabinet to abolish capital punishment puts an end to one of the barbarities of civilized lands. For whatever may be said of the death penalty, its infliction publicly, as in France, and by the method of decapitation, is both barbaric and depraving. Time was when all nations slew their criminals in public, with a ribald and riotous crowd looking on. France was the last of the great nations to clothe the execution of the death sentence in suitable secrecy.

Four States of this Union have abolished the death penalty. One other—Kansas—by a curious custom, which is slowly growing into law, sentences the condemned murderer to death "upon warrant of the Governor," and no Governor for eighteen years has signed a death warrant.

Whether capital punishment is a deterrent to crime is yet to be determined. In Michigan it is not inflicted; in New York it is. But to compare the statistics of homicide in Michigan and New York is futile. Crime lurks in the congested centres.

But the disappearance of the guillotine and public executions is another step toward a higher humanity. The rack went long ago; the public gallows has been hidden away. Perhaps in time slow evolution will end all taking of human life by the State.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

She Explains Why the Parisians Rather Justly Consider Americans a Race Without Manners

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

DOUBTLESS there are Americans who are refined and educated; doubtless there are American women who are charming and without vanity. But it must be confessed that far too many individuals among these hustling "transatlantics" are ostentatious, superficial, satisfied with themseves and their country, their dollars, their strength, their hurry and their skill.—Ernest Daubet, in Libra Parole.

COMMENTS like the above appear constantly in the French press, and they indicate the exact attitude of France toward America.

Never was a country more universally hated than our own. When not actively hated it is regarded with critical amusement. At the same time our financial success and our material progress arouses a spirit of jealousy and envy, so that all the evil emotions seem to be brought to the surface in the European mind at the mention of the word America.

The Europeans do not want our prosperity at the cost of having our methods or our manners. But they would like our wealth, as they are universally an avaricious people and lovers of wealth for what it can procure.

The Parisians are wholly unostentatious; they despise a showy exterior, and some of their most palatial homes are almost shabby on the outside.

Our display of opulence offends their sense of refinement, but they are ravenous for the means by which this display is made, and their only tolerance of us in their midst is that we may dispense some of our superfluous dollars where they may profit by them.

Parisians are quite justified in regarding Americans as vulgarians, if not barbarians, since the opening of the American section of the exposition of 1900.

American friends who were present on that great occasion have related to me what occurred to their humiliation and chagrin.

These friends had been present at the receptions given by the Chinese, the Japanese, the Russians, French, German and, in fact, all the other departments of the exposition.

American Rabble

ALL invitations were issued by card, and all the foreign receptions were distinguished by quiet elegance.

When my friends presented themselves at the entrance of their own national department they found a mob in possession. Elegantly attired women were elbowing guards and officials away from the post of duty and forcing their way into the reception rooms without cards.

"We are Americans and free people, and we have a right to go in! No foreigner has a right to keep us out of our own country's department!" was their cry. And in they went, before the eyes of astonished and disgusted officials placed on duty to keep order and receive the cards of the invited.

When refreshments were served a scene even more disgraceful occurred. It was an absolute onslaught, a raid of the six hundred toward the tables. My friend's gown was nearly torn from her body as she tried to escape.

And, mind you, these were not the poor and hungry people of America, the "bread line" of New York's poor districts; they are people of wealth and supposed position, handsomely attired and passing as the representative citizens of America. And their numbers justified the supposition.

Not one, not ten, not twenty Americans were guilty of this conduct on that occasion, but a mob of hundreds.

It has never been forgotten in France, and never will be.

The foreign papers rang with ridicule of Americans for weeks, and no wonder. "Heathen" Chinese and Japanese officials shrugged their shoulders when the name of America was mentioned. And France continues to think of us as vulgarians, and hungry ones, at that, fighting for an entrance to a reception to which we are not bidden, and fighting our way to the food after we get in.

It is the fault of Americans in Europe that such comments as the one quoted above appear continually in the French press.

The French View

STANDING at one of the "Louve" counters waiting for an overtaxed salesman to find time for me, I heard an irritable voice at my side complaining of his lack of attention.

The young man replied politely, saying she must wait her turn.

As I glanced at the woman, she said in English: "You are an American, are you not?" (I wondered whether it was my "type" or my poor French she recognized). Then the woman proceeded to bind American shops and decry the Paris stores, and for five minutes I was forced to listen to her tasteless and unjust harrangue before I could make my escape.

There are hundreds of such Americans abroad.

Surely it is no wonder the French people do not love us!

When a Frenchman wishes to pay you a sincere compliment he tells you that you are wholly un-American. Once he says that you may believe he really accepts you as an individual worthy of consideration.

ROMANS.

ROMANS are the men that lived in the good old days when Julius Seesar was a fiter & a general, thay was called Romans because they came from Rome, wich sat upon her 7 hills & from her throan of glory ruled the world.

2 of the best Romans I know about was Julius Seesar & Joe Grim. Mister Seesar was a grate general who led his troops into Gall & other countries & never lost a battle & gained when he was away from home on the road. Joe Grim was also a fiter from Italy but he wasent as grate a man as Mister Seesar, because they killed Seesar & nobody can kill Mister Grim.

Mister Seesar died he looked at the man wich stubbed him with a tabel knife & sed "Goodby Brutus, give my regards to the Appian Way & tell all the boys around the Roman Metropole I wont be thare no moar."

another grate & good Roman was Mister Horashus wich kept the Bridge, he sed "O look at all these peopul with pasees, they cant get across this bridge. It is owned by the Penn. Railrods & I will die for my bosess," so he kept them back & after he did this grate deed the Penn. Railrods gave him a badge wich cost $.75 & sed "This is a here."

BUTCHERS.

BUTCHERS is the men that can look a pig in the eye & kill it but cant look a man or woman in the eye & say "Foark is 20 cents a pound."

Thay are of 2 kinds, naimly: Littel butchers & Big butchers.

The Littel butchers are not so very bad, they go along & kill thare animals & fix them up nice so they are fine eeting, & thay do no wrong except to the sed animals, wich have a hard deel from any kind of butcher, even little ones.

Next we have the Big butchers, like Swift & Company & other Chicago society men, wich calls thare slauter housis Stock Yards, but everybody else calls them a Jungle, etc.

The muust differns between Littel butchers & Big butchers is in thare talk befoar strangers.

The Littel butcher says "how much sausage & pork stake is it to-day" & the Big butcher says "My dear sir, nobody can kill more if we ship 1,000,000 tons mitynit pounds of meet over youre road how much rebait do we git?"

that is pritty neer all I kno about butchers, except that our butcher calm to the flat last week & sed to Pa "How much longer is this hawk going to last about paying me neats weak?" & Pa sed down the dum waiter "Well, I am not surprised at yure talk. Curisey is out of dait." & I guess the butcher dident paid yet.

MEYER BLOOMFIELD ON DAVID A. ELLIS OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

By Meyer Bloomfield

A most important question which forced citizens will have to face at the December city election is the filling of the single vacancy that occurs this year on the School Board.

The one-year term to which Mr. David A. Ellis was chosen expires, and those who have the welfare of Boston's little ones at heart are concerned, vitally and emphatically, in the prospective candidates to this office.

Who is Mr. Ellis? Does he merit a return to the board? Shall the fathers and mothers of Boston replace him by another? An intelligent community thinks seriously about such things; they strike home, these questions do; they affect the city's best possession—its children.

The career of Mr. Ellis has been an open book. Its special interests, its prejudices, its no injustices, have ever tainted the performance of his duties. A well-known and widely-respected lawyer, a conspicuously valuable adviser and trustee of more than a dozen charitable institutions, from none of which he has ever received a single penny, a clean and most capable executive, always simple and unassuming, Mr. Ellis, by his unselfish and effective devotion to the public good, deserves well of his fellowmen. His services on the School Committee, even as they have been at great cost of energy, never slinted or half-hearted, and with large inroads upon the time he must devote to the earning of a livelihood, have been far-sighted in purpose and beneficent in result.

Being himself a father, Mr. Ellis realizes the part that schooling plays in the lives of the city's children; he believes that American children, the children of the masses, must for their own good and for the country's good be brought up in public schools, and it is his life dream and his work to make the Boston public school unrivalled by any private school in the world both in point of equipment and attainment. He knows deeply the hardships of the tenement mother, and he is laboring to give her boy or girl the very best kind of a start in life.

Talk to Mr. Ellis about pushing himself forward, or making himself "solid," and your interview with him will be short-lived, but mention something that will profit teachers, the school service, the children, their parents and the hundreds of employes of the School Department, and your time will be your own. Mr. Ellis will go anywhere to learn anything that will help the work he loves.

Such type of public service is altogether uncommon. He trusts so implicitly in the people, he is so sure of the right-working instincts of a parent, that he is content to leave to them the verdict upon his work. He is a busy, tireless friend of the people. The teachers grown gray in faithful service, he wishes to see honorably retired on a living income, so he is working on a pension bill; promotions in the teaching service he realizes should be put on a merit basis; this will give heart to teachers who wish to be a future before them, hence the merit plan, which he labored over.

Take him as you will, differ from this plan or that one, you never will find Mr. Ellis other than deadly earnest, modest, upright, gifted with a rare judicial mind and a dynamo of service. Shall he be re-elected to the School Board? The answer may be safely left to those who have children at stake in Boston.
